Doubting Thomas — Wall Street
New Kind of Baby
Not Rum, Money
Not Jail, Europe

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

(Copyright, 1928.)

WALL STREET'S doubting Thomases were frightened yesterday, ran away from stocks, let the prices fall. Later they came back and put prices up again.

Fear seized them when Chicago's Federal Reserve Bank raised rediscount rates to 4 per cent "to curb speculation."

SPECULATION, polite name for stock gambling, should be curbed. But intelligent financiers might find a better way than making money dear for those engaged in regular business and frightening legitimate investors.

HIGH finance bitterly opposed the Federal Reserve system that has since proved its salvation, and does not know everything.

The dollar has dropped from 100 cents to 60 cents of real value. Wages have gone up. The country's wealth has increased enormously. Regardless of discount rates, sound values will rise, as water does, until new values and the new dollar find their level.

CYRUS H. K. CURTIS' eminently respectable newspaper says, "crowds gathered to stare at the home of the eugenic baby."

The interesting little story is not new. A widow lady, unmarried, with no children, decided not to spend a childless old age, and the so-called "eugenic baby" is hers.

But Europa was not married, nor Danea, mother of Perseus, temporary bride of the Golden Rain. The mother of William the Conquerer was unmarried at his birth. The mother of Leonardo never married his father.

IN early pagan days, what Mr. Curtis' editor calls "an eugenic mother" would have said, "A god visited me," and would have put on airs accordingly.

Now she says more simply, "I was determined to have a real interest in life." Morally, religiously and fundamentally it is wrong, for every child is entitled to the concentrated attention of a FATHER AND A MOTHER.

A FAMOUS, beautiful dancer decided to be a mother, without the formality of marriage, and wrote to George Bernard Shaw, whom she never saw, "I have great admiration for your intellect. What a wonderful thing it would be if a child could inherit my beauty and your brain."

Shaw, a cynic, but virtuous, is supposed to have replied, "Yes, but suppose the child inherited your brain and my beauty. What a calamity that would be."

DR. BUTLER, of Columbia, says, "Rum will be the issue in 1928." But it won't.

PROSPERITY, the thing that interests wets and drys, will be the issue in 1928.

Mechanics getting from $10 to $18 a day want to continue at that rate. Big business men, getting from $10,000 to $18,000 a day, want to continue at THAT rate.

Besides, prohibition is here, and is going to stay. And so is bootlegging.

A SON-IN-LAW of a United States cabinet officer testifies that after his father-in-law handed government oil reserves to a big oil man, that gentleman gave the father-in-law $269,000. Do you think anybody will go to jail in connection with this incident? If you do, you are innocent.

He who steals a suit of clothes goes to jail. He who steals a hundred million, goes to Europe.

A TORNADO "turns over a country school and kills four children," near Nashville, Tenn.

Such a wind would do no damage in a city with houses of steel, brick or concrete.

If some genius would concentrate on "quantity production of houses" as manufacturing genius has done with automobiles, houses would be safe and cheaper than they are now, from skyscrapers to country schoolhouses.

PILOT BROOKS, who guided Mrs. Lindbergh through the air to Mexico City in a three-engined Ford plane, didn't quite make the "trip in one day from Detroit to Miami." But he did fly 790 miles on 20 gallons of gasoline. On the last lap of the trip, going over the Blue Ridge Mountains, ice, formed on the tiny "flying flivver," compelled Brooks to turn back. He will start again and succeed.

Those figures, 790 MILES FLYING ON 20 GALLONS OF GAS, are amazing, with flying in its infancy.

BRANDS STRIKE MISERY WORSE THAN RUSSIA

THIS is the first of the vivid stories of the mines and miners written exclusively for The Sun-Telegraph by Fannie Hurst, one of America's most famous writers. The second story of this interesting series will appear in Sunday's Sun-Telegraph, because Miss Hurst has acquired such a vast amount of data and impressions that she needs time to assemble them properly. Other stories will follow.

By Fannie Hurst

(Copyright, 1928, by The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.)

IT IS 40 hours since I stepped off the train that brought me to Pittsburgh.

As panoramic, as incredible, as crammed, as contradictory, as exciting, as depressing and as puzzling a 40 hours as are conceivable.

In their brief scope, Time has committed the mysterious paradox of seeming to fly and yet at the same time contain a lifetime of events. It seems hours or years since I beheld Pittsburgh dawn upon me from the train, the turban of her black morning mists wrapped around her brow and her smoke plumes waving.

FANNIE HURST

Since then I have been met by ladies' committees, whisked through rain-lashed streets and hurtled up to hotel rooms that overlook flocks of superb public buildings. I have been whisked through snowstorms, plunged through tunnels, into mining town, into one conference after another; into camp, barricade, shanty, and so on through panoramic experiences which it is to be the chief purpose of this article to describe.

Consider, if you will, the retina of these eyes and the retina of this brain as blank as it has been humanly possible to make them.

That has not been so difficult as it may seem, because the coal strike centering in and about Pittsburgh has remained highly localized.

This need not surprise Pittsburgh because if the city I see before me is even half awake to the social, economic and industrial catastrophe that has her and the entire Capital-Labor question in its tightening grip, then the Monongahela River is flowing up-hill.

LANGUID PUBLIC UNWORRIED

The town is apparently in a languid way, doing some of the things that are automatically done about strikes—forming committees, relief groups, benefit performances, funds, etc., but to the man-in-the-street whose community consciousness is too often interchangeable with his pocket-nerve, this strike remains remote and unreal because he uses natural gas or the price of his coal has not gone up.

So permit me, Pittsburgh, in this first article which is to be an impression, rather than a discussion, to introduce you to your city from the viewpoint of one who comes into it with a fresh eye and a mind unbiased as yet, with the factional aspects of this great dispute. I want to introduce you, who have been so close to this picture of strife and dissension over a long period, to a Pittsburgh that is seen through the eyes of a beholder who arrives as a visitor, and who steps off a train into your midst with a mind fertile for first impressions and hungry for facts.

I never ride into this plumed city of yours that is built on twenty-five hills, without the sense that even more than Rome on her puny seven hills typified her civilization, here is a city that to most of all is the symbol-city of America.

Many of the descriptive phrases about us as a nation that have found their way into the currency of all languages, must have been coined right here.

PITTSBURGH'S MAGNIFICENCE

Rich America. Material America. Industrial America. Millionaire America. Land of Opportunity. Land of Milk and Honey. Land of Plenty.

And why not. The most spectacular fortunes in the history of this spectacular country have been mined and milled out of the ribs of this State-of-plenty.

While by no means the beauty-prize winner among American cities, there is a grandeur to Pittsburgh. A grim, a sort of terrible magnificence. She is the Dark Lady of the Sonnets. She wears black pearls to match her certain matchless kind of WHY Miss Hurst Asks— ?

After two years and a half of an unspeakably degrading situation, is there no relief or end in sight?

Has there not been local or national intervention?

Have the problems fundamental to this situation, over-production, living wage, collective bargaining, interstate commerce, etc., remained mere phrases, while Rome burns and Pittsburgh apparently fiddles. The State fiddles. The Government fiddles.

"Down in the Coal Mine"

FANNIE HURST ENTERS 18-MILE WORKINGS

Miss Hurst, with Vice President Joseph Edwards of the Vesta Coal Company, and a mine boss, spent much of yesterday far inside Vesta Mine No. 6 at Vestaburg in Washington county, watching non-union miners at work and listening to the operators' side of the story. The Vesta company, subsidiary of Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation, produces no coal for commerce, its supply being absorbed by the steel company.

Disobeys Ma, Goes In Mine

Fannie Hurst says in an autobiographical sketch that she grew up "a naughty, rather spoiled, only child." The "naughty" part of it may or may not be true; but it is a fact that she disobeyed her mother yesterday. Disregarding a maternal message, conveyed by telegraph, commanding her not to venture into a coal mine, the celebrated writer went deep down into the earth, into the land of eternal midnight, and spent several hours there.

In her eagerness to omit nothing that would contribute to her understanding of miners' problems and the factors that enter into the strike, Miss Hurst availed herself of an opportunity to inspect the workings of a mine that is operated by non-union labor. Under the guidance of Joseph Edwards, vice-president of the Vesta Coal Company, subsidiary of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation, she visited No. 6 mine of that company, at Vestaburg. Equipped with a miners' lamp, she walked from the mine mouth some distance into the entry, then boarded one of the electrically operated cars in which coal is carried, and in this rude conveyance was hauled some two miles into the mine.

Miss Hurst entered the chambers in which men were working, and

CAN'T TRACE USE OF OVAL

—WILLIAM H. STEVENSON

Insurmountable legal barriers, it is declared, stand in the way of any attempt to divert Schenley Park to use as a landing field or for any purpose except that of the free recreation of the people.

The rigid provisions made by Mrs. Mary E. Schenley when she deeded the property to the city have been hedged about by traditions and precedents, which, it is declared, no court could break down. Efforts made years ago to seize portions of the park for other uses resulted in proponents of the projects coming face to face with the legal stonewall and with a flareup of public opinion which killed off their plans in the making.

"Schenley Park is a public playground and nothing else," declared William H. Stevenson, who, as chairman of the finance committee of the old Pittsburgh city council, handled the deal for the site of the Carnegie Institute of Technology and was the central figure in the struggle to have the school located within the park. Even after an adjoining tract of land was bought and added to the park it was necessary to obtain enabling legislation

GIRL TO LINER

By International News Service.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Jan. 26.—Coupled with a denial by James A. Smith, uncle of Miss Frances St. John Smith, missing college freshman, that members of her family were negotiating with members of a gang of criminals for her release by the payment of ransom, came a "promising clue" that placed the missing New York heiress aboard the Savannah liner City of Birmingham on January 15, two days after she disappeared from Northampton.

The dragging of the Connecticut River, an operation that was started yesterday, was discontinued temporarily today on account of weather conditions. The low temperature combined with the high winds and waters, put a stop to the work, shortly after it was started this forenoon.

Reconsider Vote on Vare

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The Senate Elections Committee today decided to reconsider its action in dismissing the contest of William B. Wilson, Democrat, for the seat of Senator-elect William S. Vare, Republican, of Pennsylvania.

This action was forced by Senator James A. Reed, Democrat, of Missouri, who introduced a resolution in the Senate calling on the committee to proceed at once with an investigation into the charges of election frauds made against Vare by Wilson. Reed temporarily tabled his resolution when members of the committee agreed to meet and reconsider their dismissal of the complaint. All indications pointed to adoption of Reed's resolution if the committee had refused to reconsider its decision.

Local Mail Pilot in Crash

Crashing with a new Pitcairn Whirlwind diplane into a woods adjoining Lansdowne Field, Youngstown, O., Dewey Noyes, airmail pilot on the Pittsburgh-Cleveland route today miraculously escaped death. The plane was not badly damaged.

The accident occurred when Noyes was attempting to land on the air field. A cross wind caught the plane and hurled it toward the woods, where Noyes lost control and fell with the machine.

Noyes left Bettis Field, McKeesport, at 10:40 this morning and was scheduled to leave Cleveland at 12:17 on the return trip.

Noyes has been flying on the mail route since its inauguration and is considered one of the crack pilots of this district.

"FOX" MURDER TRIAL RESUMED; HICKMAN TO TAKE STAND

NEW JUDGE ON BENCH; START PICKING JURY

By International News Service

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 26.—William Edward Hickman will take the witness stand in his own behalf if permitted by his attorneys.

Just before he entered court today the kidnaper-slayer of Marian Parker reiterated his desire to be a witness for himself.

"And when I get up there and start talking, I'll tell plenty," he boasted.

"One thing I'm going to tell that I never told before is about the morning after I delivered the girl's body to her father, the morning the police came to my apartment, looked me over and then went away without arresting me."

The bailiff rapped for order at 10:03 o'clock, as Judge Hardy and Judge Trabucco mounted the bench.

Judge Hardy instructed his clerk to enter the order assigning Judge Trabucco to try the case and retired from the courtroom.

Hardy withdrew as trial judge when Jerome Walsh, youthful chief of defense counsel, demanded a change of judges on the grounds that Hardy was "biased and prejudiced." Presiding Judge Victor McLucas granted the plea and appointed Trabucco.

Hickman was led to his assigned seat alongside Deputy Sheriff Claude Peters, his 186-pound bodyguard.

Twelve prospective jurors took seats in the jury box as their names were called from the panel.

Five women occupied seats in the jury box when the first 12 prospective jurors were sworn.

Trabucco ever-ruled a defense objection to any judge trying the kidnaper-slayer other than one acceptable to Hickman, when the case was called.

WOODSIDE HITS BUREAU OF ACCOUNTS

The County Bureau of Accounts and Statistics, with a force of about a dozen men with an annual payroll of $32,500, came under fire again today when County Controller Robert G. Woodside attempted to strip the bureau of the duty of compiling and printing the annual county budget.

Since the bureau was established a few years ago, Gilbert C. Cloeren, its head, compiled the budget. Controller Woodside informed the County Commissioners at today's budget making session that hereafter he would make up the budget. The controller asked that $1,000 for printing the budget be transferred from the bureau's account to the controller's account to care for this matter in the future. The controller told the commissioners that Cloeman did not have any authority to compile the budget, as an act of Assembly gave him jurisdiction and authority.

Since the commissioners began paring preliminary estimates prior to setting the tax millage for 1928, nearly $100,000 have been cut from estimates. The commissioners intend to cut $700,000 from amounts asked in order to hold the same millage.

BLAST OF TORCH KILLS WORKER

His clothing ignited by the explosion of an oil torch which he was using to thaw out air valves under a street car in the Craft avenue barn of the Pittsburgh Railways Company at 2:30 o'clock this morning, William Noon, 55, laborer, of 712 Lemont street, suffered burns that resulted in his death at noon in Mercy Hospital.

Ban Degree Of School Here

HARRISBURG, Jan. 26.—The right of the Pittsburgh College of Chiropractic and the Eastern College of Neuropathy and Naturopathy of Philadelphia to confer degrees is denied in an opinion today from Penrose Hertzler, special deputy attorney general. Both colleges are incorporated under the laws of Delaware and registered to do business in Pennsylvania.

Hertzler says there is no act of assembly permitting a foreign corporation to grant degrees in Pennsylvania.

The Pittsburgh college sought to confer the degree of Doctor of Chiropractic.

MAKING FRIENDS

A lover of dogs, Fannie Hurst paused in her travels about the mining communities long enough for a handshake with Rex of the State Police substation at Harmarville and his master, Corp. E. A. Lottick, in command of the post.

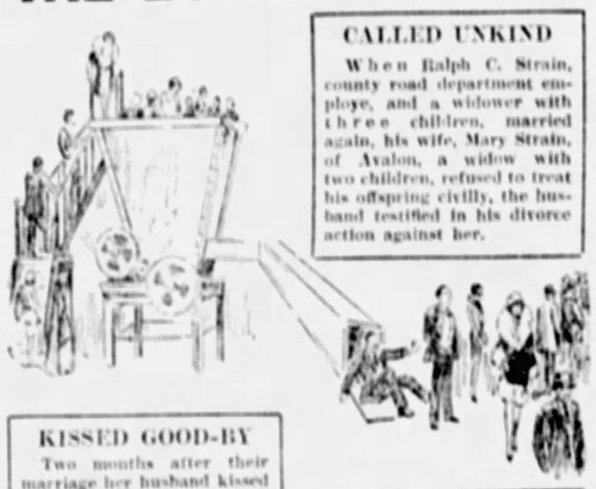
TALE OF TRAGEDY

Miss Helen Lubresky stands at the door of her Acmetonia barracks "home" and tells Miss Hurst how her mother died in the uncompleted building two days after eviction from the company house where she was lying ill of pneumonia. Some of the furniture stands outside.

INNOCENT BYSTANDER

Helen Anne Lawton, another occupant of the miners' board barracks at Acmetonia, is one of those on whom the burden of the struggle between operators and union falls hardest. Just a little hesitant at first, she brightened, nevertheless, under the kindliness of Miss Hurst's smiling approach.

THE DIVORCE MILL



CALLED UNKIND

When Ralph C. Strain, county road department employe, and a widower with three children, married again, his wife, Mary Strain, of Avalon, a widow with two children, refused to treat his offspring civilly, the husband testified in his divorce action against her.

KISSED GOOD-BY

Two months after their marriage her husband kissed her good-by, and went to draw his pay. She has never seen him since, testified Mrs. Grace Martin, hair dresser, of 1919 St. Ives street, North Side, in her divorce hearing against Daniel C. Martin, a motorman. Judge James B. Drew heard the case. Questioned by her attorney, W. L. Milburn, she said she knew of no reason for Martin's disappearance. The couple were married in October, 1918.

Rea Case Hearings Private

George E. Alter, former Attorney General of Pennsylvania, today was appointed master in the divorce suit of Mrs. Margaret M. Rea against Henry O. Rea, Sewickley Heights clubman. The appointment was made by Judge James B. Drew.

The appointment of Attorney Alter to take testimony is the first time in more than a year that a master has been appointed in a divorce case. A year ago the court adopted a rule that all divorce cases should be heard in open court.

The appointment was made at the request of Attorney William Watson Smith, counsel of Mrs. Rea. The hearing will be private.

CASH GONE, BABE GOES TO MORGUE

The wasted body of a four-month-old boy, lying in the county morgue, will be cremated, perhaps Saturday, unless money is raised for burial.

Ralph Barbas—that was his name. And the four months of his life were spent in a dilapidated home in the rear of 416 Manor street. He died this morning of a fever that his body, lacking proper nourishment and warm clothing, could not fight off.

The mother, Lucy Barbas, was grief-stricken. But she had no money, and there was no place in the sparsely-furnished home for the body of Ralph to lie.

A friend notified police, and the body was taken to the morgue.

The husband and father of the family has been gone for almost a month now, looking for work. Mrs. Barbas does not know how to find him. In the meantime, neighbors, none too well off themselves, are doing their best to keep the mother and her other children fed and clothed.

CARTAGENA, Colombia, Jan. 26—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, piloting his famous Spirit of St. Louis plane, arrived here at 1:45 o'clock this afternoon for his first landing on the continent of South America.

Virtually the entire population of Cartagena was on or in the vicinity of the landing field to see the young American aerial ambassador bring his silver-gray plane to earth, and the first touch of the pneumatic-tired wheels on South American soil was the signal for a roar of cheering which drowned out the sound of the airman's motor.

CITY COUNCIL FINDS -:- MYSTERY ALMOST

CITY FATHERS "DISCOVER" POLICE WRECK THREE WEEKS LATE

There's no use trying. City Council just can't be fooled. A special committee of the city solons learned yesterday that on January 5, just three weeks ago, a touring car assigned to Central police district had been badly damaged in a collision. No report was made at the time, council averred, and the committee ordered an immediate explanation of the wreck from Public Safety Director James M. Clark. While council knew nothing of the wreck, newspapers on January 5 carried complete stories of the accident, which police reported occurred as officers were answering an emergency call to a North Side fire. The Sun-Telegraph even printed photographs of Patrolman John Cahill and Sergt. J. J. Kohnke, who were taken to the hospital. Clark is to submit his report of the great councilmanic mystery to a committee of Harry A. Little, John S. Herron and W. Y. English today.

FLINN MAY GET PLACE ON SLATE

County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong may not run as a candidate for delegate to the Republican National Convention from the Thirty-fifth district, according to reports today. Should he decide to stay out of the race, the place on the organization ticket which is being held open for him possibly will be given to George H. Flinn. The other delegate place on the organization ticket in that district probably will go to Mayor Charles H. Kline.

State Chairman W. L. Mellon said today that he hoped to complete Allegheny county's slate of delegates before the end of this week. The two delegates from the Thirty-sixth District already have been slated. They are Miles Bryan, of McKees Rocks, and Mayor J. S. Crawford, of Duquesne. A. L. Humphrey, Edgewood, is sure of one place from the Thirty-third. The other may go to District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner, although that has not been definitely decided.

Dr. F. H. Frederick, North Side leader, will get one place in the Thirty-second. Mrs. Edith Oliver Rea, former Lieut. Gov. Walter Lyon and others are mentioned for the second position there. Senator M. G. Leslie will be slated for delegate from the Thirty-fourth. There were rumors that former Mayor William A. Magee would be his running mate, but it is said that Magee will not run. The former Mayor is taking an active part in the campaign of James M. Magee for Congress in the Thirty-fifth District against Harry A. Estep.

Tourists Wear Out Roads at Gettysburg

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—(AP.)—Roads in the Gettysburg National Military Park, comprising the battlefields of that famous engagement, which are visited by many thousands of tourists every year, are in such bad shape the War Department is contemplating a survey to determine the cost of putting them in condition to handle the heavy traffic.

The roads were constructed before the introduction of motor vehicles and were designed primarily for horse-drawn traffic. Present day demands of motorists call for better drives through the park and if the cost of repairing them is not excessive an estimate will be submitted for funds necessary.

'SHORT' SCALES SEIZED

Four acts of scales were seized in stores here yesterday by investigators working under the direction of Ordinance Officer Murray G. Livingston who is conducting a campaign against short weight in sales. The scales were seized after their owners had been warned to have them adjusted. Similar warnings have been issued to other store proprietors. Mr. Livingston said the scales will not be returned.

He Smokes Meat Fire Bells Clang

The next time Joseph Takacs, 135 Genesta street, Hazelwood, smokes meat in the shed back of his home he is going to formally notify the fire department, the chief of police, the fire underwriters, the department of health and anybody else interested.

This morning he decided to smoke up a little meat against a possible lean spring and the next thing he knew confusion reigned about his premises. Engine Company No. 13, with its equipment, started a hose towards the smoke shed and it was only the earnest pleading of Takacs that kept his meat from being chilled by the icy water.

GANGS OPEN BOMB WAR ON CHICAGO OFFICIALS

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—Gangland, battling for its life, today declared war on the City of Chicago.

That was the interpretation police placed on the bombing shortly after midnight of the home of Charles C. Fitzmorris, city controller, second in rank to Mayor Thompson in the city administration, and former chief of police.

BOMB OTHER HOMES

A second bomb exploded early this morning between the homes of Dr. William H. Reid, a power in the Thompson political machine, and John P. Allen, Thompson supporter and recent candidate for alderman, whose former home in another section of the city was bombed several months ago.

The bomb might have been intended for either Reid or Allen, but police inclined to believe it was directed at Reid.

No one was injured by the bombs.

The crack investigators of the police department were turned onto the hunt for the bombers today. Police were reticent about details, but persons familiar with the affairs of gangland saw great importance in the bombings.

Back of today's attack, they said, lies a long and confused trail of politics, gang influence and Chicago's growing self-consciousness arising from the merciless sarcasm to which the affairs of gangland has exposed the city.

For months there has been an increasing belief that the city administration has set out definitely to get rid of gangsters. The mysterious absences of Al Capone, supreme lord of gangland; repeated arrests on minor charges of Joe Saltis and other minor gang leaders, and most of all, the rigidly enforced police ban on operation of elaborate gambling houses—chief source of income of the gangs—all have indicated that the police department had seriously set out to break the grip of the hoodlums on the city.

WILL ROGERS

It's going to be a fight to a finish between the alienists and the photographers. American murder procedure is about as follows: Fool enough to commit a crime, dumb enough to get caught, smart enough to prove you crazy when you committed it, and fortunate enough to show you was too sane to hang.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

GRAPPLES WITH THIEF, SHOT

At 7:30 o'clock this morning James Fagiano, 38, stepped into the hallway adjoining his grocery store at 108 Elm street to get the milk.

"Hands up!" he heard, and saw a revolver in the hands of a huge Negro.

Fagiano grabbed him. They tussled and the revolver discharged, the bullet passing through Fagiano's left hand. The Negro ran.

The girl, in serious condition, insists she shot herself at her home in Big Run, Belmont county, but authorities are convinced she is trying to shield her sweetheart.

'UNCIVILIZED SPECTACLE', FANNIE HURST SAYS

dusk. She wears smoke plumes in her hair. Smoke plumes that are born out of her great vitality.

It was to this Pittsburgh that I arrived forty hours ago on the mission that has to do with the coal strike.

Since then I have visited various mines, mining towns and miners' families. I have journeyed down into a coal mine and ridden through its black and gaseous labyrinths with mine operators and non-union men. I have dined with miners in their barracks and I have broken bread with a striking miner and his wife and 12 children in the glorified wooden packing-case they call home. I have read tons of statistics, pages of reports, duplicates of telegrams from operators to governors, and from union officials to senators. I have perused columns of strike "literature," conferred with high officials in the union and been personally conducted in the limousines of mine operators. I have talked to coal-and-iron policemen; to state policemen and I have seen bullet holes in doorways from lead that had first pierced the heart of a strike victim. I have held strike-born babes in my arms who were brought into a shambles-like world within sight and sound of the other children of the family.

SCENES OF SQUALOR UNEQUALLED

It is less than two years since the writer returned from a tour of Russia, but in the brief survey of strike conditions in this city she can safely say that she had never beheld the equal of the scenes of human squalor, degradation, poverty and misery that exist here on the outskirts of Pittsburgh.

And milling around this Hades of pain and oppression, its sensibilities apparently unscathed, there flows the first city of the state. Day after day Public Opinion, passive, unbestirred, phlegmatic, flows past the cruel and ironic spectacle of miners' ex-homes boarded up and vacant, while the evicted families live opposite them in wooden huts, where even the most ordinary of human decencies cannot be observed.

The mine operators explain why these evictions are necessary. The union officials explain why they are not. There is undoubtedly much to be said on both sides. The purpose of this article is to deliberately sidestep, at this time, any consideration of the right or wrong of the two vast opposing forces concerned in this death grapple. That must come in subsequent writing, after there has been more time for study and digest.

For the moment, Pittsburgh is more the subject than the mines, the miners or the owners.

Past these empty-eyed, wooden buildings, these mausoleums of human hopes and aspirations, there flows daily a public that calmly countenances the inhuman, the ironic and the unclean spectacle of men and women and children herding together in the propinquities of animals and far greater filth than the lowliest of animals.

LIVING LIKE ANIMALS.

Regardless of who is right and who is wrong in the issues at stake—this uncivilized spectacle of families living like dogs among slops in kennels opposite the very thresholds of their vacant homes, is wrong.

Breathes there a city with soul so dead . . . flows there a public opinion so sluggish . . .

Children are hungry and sore-eyed in these kennels . . . mothers have not the milk for their wretched babies. . .

This is not a sob-plea for the women and children, although their plight sickens and depresses. The civilization which countenances the wretchedness that exists along the hems of this fine city, becomes a horror.

But nevertheless the suffering women and children snatched up against the breast of this strike situation, must not obscure the issue. Temporary help is not the cure.

War is war. Since time immemorial women and children have always borne its brunt. Julius Caesar said that only women know the real horror of war. As usual, they are the effect of this coal war, and somewhere deeply imbedded in the appalling situation, is the Cause.

To fiddle around with the pain in the side, to throw a temporary sob and sop to the women and children, is not to get at the cancer.

The sob over their misery is not to get at the source of their ill.

To get to the root of any social ill as malignant as the one represented by this coal strike, the first necessary ally is Public Opinion.

HUMANITY'S BUSINESS.

This is Pittsburgh's fight. This is Pennsylvania's fight. This is America's fight. This is Humanity's fight. Trade Unionism, the right of man to organize and protect himself against man's inhumanity to man, is at stake. This is humanity's business.

Why, after two years and a half of an unspeakably degraded and degrading situation, is there no relief or end in sight? Why has there not been local or national intervention? Both sides say they would welcome it. Which side lies? Or do both? Or do neither? Why have the problems fundamental to this situation, over-production, living wage, collective bargaining, interstate commerce, etc., remained mere phrases, while Rome burns and Pittsburgh apparently fiddles. The State fiddles. The Government fiddles.

All of these questions must be taken up in due time in the articles that are to come, but meanwhile in these brief 40 hours, my fine lady of Pittsburgh, with the plumes in her hair, has had her garments jerked aside and beneath her finery she is covered with sores!

DISOBEYS MA; ENTERS MINE

had explained to her the technicalities of machine cutting and loading, the hazards of the work and the safety measures that have been adopted. She learned about "rock dusting" and "check weighing" and a hundred other things that have to do with the production of coal.

Miss Hurst protested against little things that were provided to make her tour of the mine more comfortable—a soap box as a step for entering the mine car, a blanket on which to sit for the protection of her clothes.

"I am no tenderfoot," she insisted.

More than 300 men were at work in the mine at the time of her visit.

Miss Hurst had dinner in the barracks of the strike-breakers—barracks which were erected by the Vesta Coal Company for its non-union employes at the time when the strikers were occupying the company's own houses.

The day was devoted largely, but not wholly, to learning the operators' and the strike-breakers' side of the strike. Officers of the Vesta Coal Company arranged an opportunity for her to hear the other side.

They had word sent to the leader of their striking employes, A. J. Murphy, president of Local No. 762 of the United Mine Workers of America, that Miss Hurst would like to visit their barracks and talk to them. She spent some time in their huts. The strikers sang for her their rallying song, the concluding words of which, to the tune of "The Battle Cry of Freedom," are:

"We will stick to the union, till the last man is down.

"Shouting for the Jacksonville Agreement."

Miss Hurst indicated to her companions that she would like to visit some of the homes unaccompanied. They left her, accordingly, and she spent much time talking to the miners' wives and getting their point of view. Learning that there were several families of Negroes in the barracks, she called at their homes, also.

Miss Hurst began her tour yesterday shortly after daybreak and night had fallen before she returned. Notwithstanding that it was a strenuous day she was engaged until a late hour last night in studying documents relating to the strike and conditions in the coal industry, and in writing.

She is continuing her investigation today.

WOMAN WITH BABE SLUGGED, HOLD UNION CHIEF

4 OTHER MINERS ACCUSED IN CASE

John Szrodnick, president of Russellton Local No. 3506, United Mines Workers of America, and four other union men were under arrest today on charges of beating Samuel Fish, a former mine foreman, and of slugging a woman holding a three-months-old baby, and her husband.

Fish preferred charges of assault and battery against the men, and Deputy Sheriff G. W. Hutchinson and officials of the Republic Iron and Steel Company told of the alleged attack yesterday on Mrs. Matthew Smetank, while she had the baby in her arms.

The beatings are said to have been administered when Fish, once foreman at Bessemer Mines No. 1 and 2 and since the strike a watchman there, went to the home of Smetank. Union men allege that his visit was to enlist his aid in recruiting workmen from the ranks of striking union miners.

Szrodnick, with George Zerlock, Theodore Kenisske, Thomas Teddy and Alex Simon, are said to have heard of the intended visit, and to have been waiting at Smetank's farm, at Superior, when Fish arrived.

HOLD THREE IN STOLEN CAR TRANSPORTATION

An indictment charging Burrell Elrod Johnston with transporting a stolen automobile from Staunton, Va., to Washington, Pa., was returned yesterday by the federal grand jury. Similar indictments were returned against Thomas Fanning and Justin McCarthy, who are said to have taken a machine from Bridgeport, Conn., to Everett, Pa.

CATHEDRAL TO BE 29 STORIES

Instead of the much-discussed 52-story Cathedral of Learning first planned by the University of Pittsburgh several revisions downward were made, until today it definitely was stated by John White, the resident engineer, that the building will be 29 stories high.

Steel will begin to rise early in April, according to present expectations, it was announced by Chancellor John G. Bowman. A part of the first three floors will be ready for occupancy within a year, to relieve congestion in the present buildings. Completion of the Cathedral will require two years and a half. The total height will be 400 feet.

Work on the foundations, in progress several months, is now virtually completed. Seventy-six caissons were sunk 40 feet to hard blue shale rock, and the foundation area, 350 by 275 feet, has been excavated to a depth of 25 feet. Ten thousand tons of concrete are going into piers and walls.

Steel will be on the ground late in March. The Cathedral's buttresses present unique problems in steel construction, especially as concerns wind pressures and support.

Effort has been concentrated, especially, upon the commons room, approximately 100 by 155 feet, on the first floor of the Cathedral. Hidden bridging has eliminated a number of obstructive columns and provided a surprising amount of clear floor space. To find the most convincing architectural treatment, the chancellor, Mr. Weber, and Charles Z. Klauder, the architect, studied large rooms in Boston, Philadelphia, New York, and other cities.

"The most beautiful room in America, a room in which a boy simply must take off his hat," is the aim in the commons, Chancellor Bowman explained. "We are now sure we have it, and that every person who has given much or a little to the building of the Cathedral will be proud."

Designing the exterior of the Cathedral is a story of patience and perseverance. The architect worked three years, adding refinement to refinement in the conception, before there came the Cathedral as now being built.

Evidence of the architectural greatness of the design was provided at Rio de Janeiro last fall when the highest award for attainment went to Mr. Klauder's plan at the meeting of the International Pan-American Architectural Congress.

SEEK TO GAIN RELEASE OF SUSPECT

While detectives hunted today for the "13 men from Brushton," signed on letters threatening "torture worse than Hickman inflicted on the Parker girl" to children of Anthony Thomas, wealthy Frankstown road Italian, efforts were being made to gain the release of Lawrence Grasi, cab driver, of 1048 Wheeler street, under arrest in the case.

Grasi's hearing, scheduled in the Frankstown Avenue Police Court, was postponed owing to illness of Magistrate John J. Soat.

Letters sent to Thomas demanding $5,000, were signed the "13 men from Brushton." Detectives say the letters ordered Thomas to leave the money in Grasi's cab.

TWO MILLION BUICKS

Twenty years to win the First Million owners ‹‹ only Four years to win the Second Million

There's assurance of quality in the fact that the motoring public has purchased two million Buicks.

There's assurance of quality in the fact that the two million Buicks have traveled scores of billions of miles.

But the most impressive proof of all is that demand for Buick has increased at such an astounding rate that sales during the last four years have equaled the sales for the preceding twenty!

Twenty years to win the first million owners—only four years to win the second million—400% gain for each of the past four years!

Never in automobile history has there been a record like this. Never has any fine car achieved such tremendous gains in popularity——because no other car ever offered such beauty, comfort and performance together with such unrivaled value!

LOST HER HEALTH; LADY IN DESPAIR

Used Ten Herbs and Ended Awful Indigestion and Run-Down Condition

"I had tried so many different kinds of medicines without satisfactory results, that I had lost faith in everything," was the statement of Mrs. Charles W. Young, 335 Horton St., Wilkes-Barre, Pa., according to the Ten Herbs Man, who is at the May's Main Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily demonstrating the great natural medicine, Ten Herbs. "I had become so weakened and run-down that I had little hope of ever being well again." Mrs. Young continued. "My digestive organs were impaired and just a little food would make me fill up and feel as though I had eaten a big meal. I could not eat roast pork and certain other foods. I suffered terribly from gas and bloating. The gas would work up around my heart and cause it to palpitate.

"My bowels were more or less irregular, and my liver was sluggish, which gave me dizzy spells. But the worst of all was nervousness. My nerves were all unstrung and would seem to jump and jerk. I could not get the proper rest at night. Rheumatism pains would shoot from one place to another, and were especially severe across my back.

"The first bottle of Ten Herbs relieved these pains, and as I continued the use of the medicine, I could feel a change for the better taking place in my whole system. My appetite has improved and now I can eat a generous meal without any distress. There is no more gas, bloating, or palpitation. My bowels are active, and my liver and kidneys are in fine condition. My nerves are strong and my sleep is sound—there is no more jumping or jerking of nerves. I didn't think it possible that Ten Herbs could give the people the prompt relief they testified, but by my own case I have proved their statements true. My advice to the public is: Give Ten Herbs a trial and be convinced."

The Ten Herbs Man is at the May's Main Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine.

Quarantine Them

Strict Quarantine Enforced.

City Health Department, Pittsburgh, Pa., quarantines all cases of pneumonia. Doctors issue warning to never allow a cold to settle in the chest or lungs. Colds are a deadly menace to health, especially that simple cold which you neglect.

To conquer a cold, see your druggist. Get a package of Bulgarian Herb (Blood) Tea. Its cost is small. Take it steaming hot to heat the chilled blood and flush the poisons from the system. Remember, this pure vegetable remedy is fine for constipation.

"I am so happy that the last pimple is gone—"

WITHOUT this handicap, there returns the very natural confidence, joy and cherished pride of possessing a clear skin.

Men and women both justly covet admiration, and you can expect such satisfaction only if you are happy in a clear unblemished skin.

The sure way to reach this state is through the blood.

Red blood cells are Nature's elements for building and sustaining the body.

Without plenty of rich, red blood, there can be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or beautiful healthy women.

—purely vegetable

You know a clear skin comes from within. Correct the cause—through the blood—and pimples, boils, eczema and that sallow complexion will disappear.

Thousands have regained their strength and charm by taking a few bottles of S. S. S.—Nature's own tonic for restoring the appetite—building strength—and clearing the body of so-called skin troubles.

All drug stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Get the larger size. It is more economical.

LAW BARS SCHENLEY AIRPORT, CLAIMS

SAYS PARK DEED KEEPS OUT PLANES

to obtain permission to erect the technical school buildings on the park property extension.

"After our experience 15 years ago and witnessing efforts since made to divert the uses of the park I am convinced that it is futile to talk of making the park a commercial landing field," said Mr. Stevenson today.

"In 1903, when the trustees of the Carnegie Institute and the finance committee of council were looking for a site for the $4,000,000 technical school which Mr. Carnegie had offered Pittsburgh, a site in the park was proposed after E. M. Bigelow's suggestion of 11 acres between Beaquet street and the park had been rejected. Mr. Carnegie dumfounded the committees when he said 11 acres was too small a tract for his proposed school. The suggestion of the park site was exceedingly popular. We had only $350,000 to spend, the money being a reserve fund from the bond issue of 1900, and, if this could be saved by getting a site in the park for nothing, it was regarded by some people as a great stroke of economy.

CARNEGIE SAW SNAG

"Farsighted Andrew Carnegie thought we would strike a snag and we did. The provisions of Mrs. Schenley's deed to the city precluded absolutely any hope of establishing a technical school or even the smallest educational building on park property, according to the best legal opinion available. H. S. A. Stewart and William Flinn, executors of the estate of C. L. Magee, then offered a 32-acre plot between the park boundary and Forbes street opposite Neville street. This land was bisected by a deep ravine, but was offered for $350,000. This valuation was approved by the Real Estate Board, the Chamber of Commerce and other organizations, and, after some haggling, the deal was consummated as a purchase of a 32-acre extension to Schenley Park.

"But when the matter of erecting the technical schools on an extension to park property was brought up legal questions arose and we carried the case to the Pennsylvania Legislature. There we encountered an unexpected obstacle. Philadelphia members, jealous of any encroachment on their beloved Fairmont Park, objected to legislation permitting educational buildings on park extensions. A compromise was effected by re-writing the bill, restricting its application to cities of the second class.

"Bear in mind that the Phipps Conservatory was provided for by an agreement between Mrs. Schenley and Henry Phipps. Other buildings in the park come strictly under the classification of recreation stands or rest houses. The clubhouse of the Pittsburgh Golf Club is well outside the park boundary. With these traditions and precedents to support the law as expressed in Mrs. Schenley's deed, it seems to me that Pittsburgh's first and greatest park will be guarded as sacred ground and so it is looked upon by the tens of thousands of people who find it their only recreation spot."

OTHER DIFFICULTIES

Aside from the legal difficulties besetting the proposal to use a portion of Schenley Park as a landing field, objection is raised against commercializing a recreation ground by those who are anxious to preserve the breathing spot in its natural beauty and quiet environment. In a letter to The Sun-Telegraph J. P. Pippen, with offices in the Union Trust Building, points out:

"It seems to me that the establishment of a flying field in Schenley Park is a serious mistake. It is a beautiful park and the only place of its kind within a radius of miles where the tired workers can go on summer evenings to seek fresh air, peace and quiet. Airplanes are necessarily noisy and nerve-racking."

Elected

L. W. MONTEVERDE

In the re-organization of the City Planning Commission, L. W. Monteverde was elected chairman. The standing committees will be appointed by the chairman at the next commission meeting.

Sage Tea Turns Gray Hair Dark

By SHIRLEY BLAKE

That beautiful even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture. You can get this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, for only 75 cents, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous.

"Peerless will continue to build character into its cars, and the company will not merge with any other motor car organizations," was the message brought to Peerless dealers of this district yesterday by Leon German, newly appointed general manager of the Peerless Motor Car Company.

"Never before has greater show interest been displayed by the public," said Mr. German at the luncheon meeting in the Hotel Schenley.

"The show visitors are comparing values and it is values that will tell the 1928 automobile story."

Frank James of Sweeney and James, national advertising representatives for Peerless, told of Peerless executives and organization. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Steel City Automobile Company, Pittsburgh distributor. H. D. Ireman, vice-president in charge of sales, was toastmaster, assisted by R. F. Lynn, assistant sales manager.

Constipation CAN be Corrected!

Here's a health hint that may mean a lot to you. A means of relieving constipation without encouraging its return. An element the system needs, anyway, and is the better for having. Calcium!

Pure calcium is one of Nature's most valuable aids. Its healthful influence is soon seen in redder blood, clearer skin; whiter, hard teeth. And how the tiny calcium wafers cleanse the whole system! The first one you take will show its ideal action, and the famous five-day test will prove that the weakest system can be weaned away from the habitual use of cathartics.

Your druggist has Stuart's calcium wafers; the test size for pocket is 10c and the family size is 60c.

Thurston Is Writing a Life Of Cagliostro, King of Liars, Who Led Europe By the Nose

By GEORGE SEIBEL.

GEORGE SEIBEL

LIKE every magician, Thurston is interested in the history of his predecessors, and it is one of his ambitions to write a life of Cagliostro, most famous charlatan that ever lived. If magicians were to turn to crime, they could probably baffle the police of any city. Fortunately they are addicted to less reprehensible forms of activity, like Thurston, who has a hobby for entertaining crippled children. Cagliostro is an example of what a magician can do when he is both unscrupulous and skillful. Cagliostro gulled royalty and even interested practical Benjamin Franklin, who was a hard-boiled skeptic on nearly everything.

Alexander Dumas wrote books about him, Cagliostro; plays and operas were based on his life. He pretended to have spent his infancy in Arabia, and to be the son of a shereef or governor of the holy City of Mecca. "As a matter of fact," says Thurston, "he was plain Joseph Balsamo, born in Palermo, Sicily, about the middle of the eighteenth century. He ran away from home on account of differences of opinion with the Palermo police, fell in with a company of mountebanks, and learned magic. For a time he gained a livelihood as a magician, but his brain teemed with visions of grandeur. He assumed the title of Count Cagliostro, and invaded London in 1776 as the self-proclaimed head of a mystic magical sect, the secret superiors of which were Moses and Elias. He claimed to have had revealed to him the secrets of the Egyptian rite of Masonry by the Grand Kophta, or high priest, and he added that title to the one he had already appropriated.

"But in time he was convicted of swindling, and fled to Paris. There Cagliostro, always a keen business man, went in for swindling on a grand scale. He duped Cardinal de Rohan, Grand Almoner of France and successor of Richelieu, and was implicated in the historic Marie Antoinette diamond necklace mystery. Fleeing to Rome he was arraigned before the Inquisition on the charge of being high priest of a secret and mystic cult. He was sentenced to death, but Pope Pius VI commuted the sentence to life imprisonment in the fortress of San Leon."

Adventurer, rogue, trickster, master of the black arts, high priest of the conjurer's craft, Cagliostro is the most fascinating figure in the history of magic. It is the story of this man that Thurston is writing in such spare time as he can take from his own arduous profession. In Europe Thurston gathered a mass of Cagliostro material, much of it new, and it is the ambition of the American magician to throw a new light on the devious ways of the greatest charlatan of history.

Two extra numbers will be given by special request Friday night, "La Nuit Ensorcelee" by Chopin-Aubert, in which Mr. Damrosch plays a small part on the piano, and "Entrance of the Little Fauns" by Pierne.

DAMROSCH PROGRAMS HERE TO BE ANALYZED

Walter Damrosch and his New York Symphony Orchestra will give two concerts in Pittsburgh this week, tomorrow night and Saturday afternoon, and the programs to be given will be analyzed in an informal talk free to the public at the Pittsburgh Musical Institute tonight. Beethoven's "Eroica" Symphony will be given tomorrow night, and Brahms Symphony No. 2 at the Saturday matinee.

COMING BILLS ARE VARIED

The seat sale opened today for the engagement of Robert B. Mantell and Genevieve Hamper in Shakespearean repertoire in the Nixon next week. The opening attraction will be "The Merchant of Venice" and the engagement will be brought to a close with "Hamlet," Saturday night, February 4.

Seats are on sale today for the engagement of Grace George in "The Road to Rome," which will begin a week's engagement next Monday night in the Alvin Theater. Robert Emmet Sherwood, editor of Life, is the author of "The Road to Rome," which is a comedy.

Next week will be the third and last week of Thurston's engagement in the Pitt. Seats for the last week are on sale. Thurston will play a matinee today and another on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Barry will come to the Davis next week in a character comedy, "The Clinging Vine." The screen will feature Madge Bellamy in "Silk Legs."

Ramon Novarro at the age of 3 is the role Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios scouts searched for weeks to fill in the "Student Prince," coming next week to the Penn, before Philippe DeLacy was chosen for the part.

Amy Rehan and Eddie Faye with the Six Sheldon Girls are to be one of the stage attractions in the Grand next week. "The Shepherd of the Hills" will be on the screen.

Vera Reynolds is a cafe entertainer, a dancing girl, in her newest film, "The Main Event," which comes to Loew's Aldine next week.

The bill next week in the Sheridan Square will include Rose's 25 Midgets, known as the "Tiny Wonder Workers From the Land of Lilliput. The two screen features will be Madge Bellamy in "Silk Legs" and Vera Reynolds in "The Main Event."

"Laffin' Thru" will be the attraction in the Academy next week. Joe Van, eccentric comic, and Althea Conley, prima donna, are the principals.

"Chick Chick," a burlesque revue, will be the attraction next week at the Gayety. Jack Lamont and Billy Wallace head the cast.

"Realization," a comedy-drama playlet, will be included in the Vitaphone program in the Olympic next week. The screen feature is "Jesse James."

CONCERT BY KREISLER LISTED FOR TONIGHT

Fritz Kreisler will appear in a concert in Carnegie Music Hall tonight, when he will play the Bach Sonata in E-Major, with piano accompaniment by Carl Lamson. The Mendelssohn Concerto in E-Minor is also a major work, which will be followed by a group of shorter numbers, including some of Kreisler's compositions.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, and emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

"My Skin Is Hopeless"

You won't say that if you will use the skin corrective that works two days at once! Your skin must be both cleared and healed. Sulphur is a remarkable skin clarifier, while nothing is better for healing than menthol. The two make a complete skin corrective, something you have not had before. While the sulphur clears up the pimples, blackheads and eczema blotches, the menthol heals the broken and sore tissue. It's wonderful how this combination works. Long-standing cases of skin troubles are cleared up, often in two or three days' time. Rowles Mentho Sulphur is inexpensive and all druggists supply it in jars ready to use. Be sure it's Rowles.

"Smooth Beautiful Skin strongest fundamental appeal"

says Gregory La Cava, director for PARAMOUNT

"The public takes to its heart only the fortunates who have that first essential for stardom—'studio skin,' that exquisite velvety bloom that keeps its perfection even in searching close-ups.

"Make-up, no matter how clever, cannot fake this flawless beauty.

"The most universal appeal any star has is her exquisite smooth skin." . . Gregory La Cava.

ANNA Q. NILSSON and the modernistic bathroom designed for her blonde loveliness.

EXQUISITE skin—"studio skin"—means even more to stars than it does to most women—it means their very career!

Nine out of every ten screen stars use Lux Toilet Soap. It cares for their exquisite skin the real French way—keeps it soft, velvety. For Lux Toilet Soap is made by the very method France developed and uses for her finest toilet soaps. In Hollywood, nothing is watched more jealously than loveliness of skin.

The great film companies following their stars' example have put Lux Toilet Soap in all their studio dressing rooms as the "official" soap. White, fragrant, delightful!

You, too, will find that Lux Toilet Soap's caressing lather is wonderful for a woman's greatest charm—her softly smooth skin. Order some today—enjoy the caressing, fragrant lather you loved in French soaps, but until now could only get at 50c or $1.00 a cake! Now it is just 10c wherever soap is sold. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Massachusetts.

Nine out of ten screen stars use it. Miss Nilsson says—

"IF a star's skin isn't beautifully smooth, her popularity wanes. Lux Toilet Soap has solved my problem—it leaves my skin like velvet."

Anna Q. Nilsson

FORT SCHUYLER HOUSING HELD 'DISGRACEFUL'

By Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—Another outstanding example of the neglect suffered by American soldiers in the matter of proper housing was found at Fort Schuyler by the Citizens' Committee, headed by Congressman Loring M. Black, Jr., investigating Army housing conditions at Army posts located within the metropolitan area. It was another case of finding Uncle Sam's defenders, many of them World War veterans, literally herded into temporary, war-time constructed shacks that have long since outlived their usefulness and only by dint of heroic effort are kept from collapsing over their heads.

Fort Schuyler is located in the Bronx on a barren point of land jutting into the water at the junction of East River and Long Island Sound. The reservation is windswept from two sides. It is particularly exposed to the heavy nor'easters sweeping down the sound in winter.

As at other posts visited the committee also found Fort Schuyler suffering from not only bad housing, or as Col. Henry D. Lindsley, of the American Legion, who accompanied the investigators, remarked, "Disgracefully bad housing," but also from a shortage of housing. The committee found a striking example of this fact at Fort Schuyler in the case of an officer with his wife and three children living in "made over" rooms in an old warehouse. Other officers and non-coms were found similarly housed.

The condition of the war-time shacks in which are the barracks, mess rooms, recreation halls and other quarters of the enlisted men were about as bad, the members of the committee agreed, as anything in that line they had seen at other posts. In their state of thorough dilapidation, the committee found, these structures could only be compared with those at Fort Hamilton and on Governors Island.

The hovels were weather-beaten and dismal in appearance both inside and out. Signs of decay were everywhere evident. Even the better type of officers' houses were glaringly in need of repair. Some of these latter structures date back to 1876. Their neglected upkeep, the officers dolefully explained, was due entirely to lack of sufficient funds for the purpose.

Sagging porches and stairs and porch pillars out of plub gave mute evidence of rapidly decaying woodwork. Broken gutters gave no protection in rainy weather, the committee was told, and pools of water collected on the porches, hastening the process of deterioration.

In the flimsy, war-time shacks in which the enlisted men live, the soldiers, assisted by their officers, had lined the ceilings and walls with box-board and burlap in an effort to keep the cold and rain out. The committee found the floors in the squad rooms and other quarters of the men rotting, with wide spaces between the boards.

The only lockers the men had were temporarily constructed shelves built of half decayed, salvaged lumber. Wide gaps between the door and window casements and the walls were stuffed with paper and rags in a feeble attempt to conserve heat and keep out the rain and the wintry blasts from Long Island Sound.

The heating equipment was the same as that in all war-time shacks—antiquated, sheet iron stoves that heated only a small portion of the rooms and around which the men huddled in groups to keep warm. Efforts had been expended by the officers and men to make the recreation rooms as cheerful as circumstances would permit in such dingy structures, but the committee found them dismal and unfit for their purpose.

(Tomorrow's article will review conditions at Fort Totten.)

Don't Be Afraid of Laboratory Tests

AS TIME goes on there will be more and more to be learned from the chemical and microscopical examination of the blood, secretions and excretions of the body. The experts are at work all the time to widen our knowledge in this field.

When there is something wrong with one of us and it fails to respond to the common remedies, it is a good thing to have the appropriate laboratory tests. You cannot afford to turn up your nose at the suggestion.

One of the amusing experiences of my life is to listen to the ranting indulged in by otherwise sensible persons, when reference is made to the modern discoveries. Old fogyism comes to the surface when we advance "new-fangled ideas."

I shall never forget one particular meeting I called while Health Commissioner of New York City. It was a group of oyster producers from one particular source of supply.

The question at issue was the purity of the water in which their oysters were grown. I was fearful of the danger of contamination from the germ-laden sewage discharged into that bay.

I shall never forget the looks of disdain and incredulity on some of the faces before me. One man exclaimed: "My father has lived here and eaten these oysters all his life. He is 80 years old, hale and hearty today!"

It is, indeed, a fortunate thing that the average person is immune to most diseases and safe from the evil effects of germs. Contaminated food and drink seem to produce no bad results. But this means nothing except that such persons are to be congratulated. Let a susceptible person come in contact with the germs of typhoid, for instance, and typhoid fever is inevitable.

But I am getting away from my subject. No matter how you may feel about such things, do not let your prejudices interfere with having the laboratory tests which modern medicine has decided are essential to full knowledge of what is wrong. If your doctor says the blood and urine should be examined, do not hesitate to follow his suggestion.

The trouble with most of us is that we are cowardly about diseases. We actually fear to face the X-ray machine or laboratory test. We are seized but "something serious" be discovered.

When will the public understand that early knowledge is essential to successful treatment? Almost every ailment—indeed I am safe in saying, every ailment—will yield to treatment if attacked in the very beginning. It is postponement of treatment that results in disaster.

You must not overlook the importance of the laboratory methods and when your doctor suggests that they are needed you will understand why.

Answers to Health Queries

E. L. B. Q.—Is consumption dangerous and is it advisable to live with and eat from the same dishes that a tubercular patient uses?

A.—Yes, if one comes in contact with the patient's sputum. The dishes should be kept separate and the patient should occupy a separate sleeping room, if possible.

Fay King Keenly Picks Apart the Modern Girl

By FAY KING

WHEN friends wish to pay an exceedingly fine compliment to a girl who is successful on the stage they do not sing of her footlight success, but dwell upon her charm away from the stage.

They tell you of what a home loving little sort she is. What wonderful spaghetti she can cook or how she loves books and children and dumb animals. Also how devoted she is to her husband and children, if she is married.

And how often you hear them say that she is absolutely unspoiled and doesn't drink or smoke.

When we wish to emphasize the charm of a successful business girl, we say that to meet her you would never dream that she holds the responsible position she does.

That she isn't a bit hardened by her business abilities. That she is just as feminine and dainty and dressy and modest and unassuming as any girl who had never left the shelter of her home.

And when we wish to praise a girl who has never gone out into the world to seek a career in business or on the stage, we say that she is the cleverest thing.

So smart in her shopping and capable of managing her home when she gets one. That if she had wanted to make a career for herself she certainly could have, as she has so much talent and charm and beauty and brains if she had wanted to use them.

All of which it seems to me proves that girls are very much alike whether they go out into the world to seek success or prefer to remain in the home and exercise the same ability to make a success of the quieter, more sheltered life.

The girl of today seems to combine the charms and beauty of the actress with the brains and ability of the business girl with also the wholesomeness of the home girl.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

Friday, January 27

A good beginning is half the business, and to have begun well is praised by all.—PLATO.

IMPORTANT events and unusual opportunities are read from this day's most interesting sidereal operations. Change of great benefit is indicated, this involving the employment as well as the environment. Advantages and financial gain attend these, but there is an admonition against rash and impetuous conduct. It would be well to weigh all matters carefully and accept conditions with restraint rather than grasp them with too great precipitancy.

Those whose birthday it is should have a year of splendid prospects for advancement and financial gain, with probable important change; but these ought not be jeopardized by rash and tumultuous behavior. "Make haste slowly."

A child born on this day should have excellent talents and capacity for success, but it should be trained in self-control and calmness, as precipitancy and impulse may prove its undoing. It may be musical or poetical by inclination.

Make this personal health test

It has convinced hundreds of thousands!

PEOPLE who were not sick—not invalids. People who were carrying on their daily work, but had lost some of the zest and joy in living which had once been theirs!

Some of them had "nerves." Many of them were troubled by sleeplessness, or headaches, or indigestion. Then they learned a natural way to better health—without medicine.

They made the thirty-day test of Postum—used this wholesome drink, made of roasted wheat and bran, in place of meal-time drinks containing the drug stimulant caffein. They missed nothing in enjoyment! They found that Postum has a delicious flavor all its own—rich, full-bodied, appetizing! All they sacrificed was their daily quota of a drug which interferes with sleep—acts on the heart and nerves—often disturbs the normal functioning of the body.

Postum users for life!

At the end of the test, they chose Postum as their mealtime drink, forever after!

Isn't it foolish to deliberately continue doing something which you know is not for the best? Don't do it another day! Your grocer has Postum, in two forms—Instant Postum, made instantly in the cup, and Postum Cereal, prepared by boiling. Postum costs much less than other drinks. It has a flavor which millions prefer. Be convinced—start the thirty-day test today!

Mrs. A. Weitzel, Montpelier Ave., Dormont, says:

It's easy to get a whiter wash

with this safe hard-water soap

"RINSO saves me so much time and work that I use it for my wash and for my other cleaning, too. It's great the way it makes our water soft and sudsy.

"I soak the clothes an hour or two in the safe, wonderful Rinso suds before putting them in the washer. They're so bright and white when they come out that about all I have to do is rinse and hang out. Why, even when I boiled them they never turned out nearly as nice and sweet as now!

"And when it comes to dishwashing and making the house bright and spotless, there's nothing like Rinso. I use it for the floors, sinks, tiles, woodwork and everything. You surely get your money's worth in a package of Rinso."

... Millions use Rinso. Thousands write us letters like this one, which is from a woman living right around here ...

You never saw such lasting suds!

Rinso makes the hardest water soft as rain. Its thick, lasting suds loosen dirt and stains—whiten without boiling, sterilize, too!

Clothes come from the washer brighter than ever, sweet as clover!

More than 32,000 demonstrators of washing machines use Rinso to show whiter clothes. And the makers of 32 leading washers recommend this famous hard-water soap for safety.

You get your full money's worth when you buy Rinso, the granulated soap—it's so compact. Feel how weighty the package is. And it's all you need—no bar soaps, chips, or softeners. For best results follow easy directions on package.

For tub washing, too

Wonderful for Chapped Hands!

—this new treatment nurses have popularized

DOCTORS first prescribed this snow-white, greaseless healing cream for chapped hands, burns and skin troubles. Hundreds of nurses adopted it—made it so popular that nearly a million jars were sold in one year.

It's so soft and soothing. One touch and your chapped hands are instantly relieved. Irritation disappears—you "feel it heal." Soon every trace of roughness is smoothed away, leaving your hands exquisitely soft and white.

If you want quick, sure relief, get a jar of Noxzema Cream at any drug or department store.

AUTO SHOW CROWDS KNOW VALUES

RECORD SALES REPORTED BY DEALERS

A motor-wise public, analytical and learned in values, is the verdict pronounced by automobile men on the huge throngs that daily are crowding Motor Square Garden for the annual automobile show, which will continue throughout this week.

And it is a buying public, for many dealers report that more orders have been taken at this show than at any previous show. Those show visitors who have not left orders have displayed a very keen desire to learn more of the new 1928 cars. Hundreds, the exhibitors observe, walk about the displays for hours, comparing the values offered by this car with values offered by its competitor. After comparisons, these show visitors are noted to present themselves to the exhibitors as prospective purchasers, a trend that is indicative of a heavy spring movements of new cars to buyers.

That the values offered by the entire lines of the 38 types of cars on display are higher than ever before, is the verdict heard expressed by the show crowds daily. These new values, with lower prices, keen competition and a desire to buy on the part of the public are writing the prologue for the greatest sales year in the history of the trade, is the comment of the industry.

That all interest is not centered in new cars is shown by the huge throngs that crowd about the displays of the accessory exhibitors on the subfloor, where all the modern innovations and developments of the parts manufacturers are presented in educational dress.

The show is being staged under the supervision of the Pittsburgh Automobile Dealers' Association, daily from 10:30 a. m. to 10:30 p. m. Musical entertainment for the show Thursday will be provided by Olga Mundy, in character songs, and two orchestral units under the direction of Charles Marsh. The musical program will be placed on the air through broadcasting station WCAE.

WORK SHOULDER TO SHOULDER

ROBERT C. GRAHAM JOSEPH B. GRAHAM RAY A. GRAHAM

The three Graham brothers, executives of the Graham-Paige Motors corporation, builders of the new Graham-Paige cars, which are being shown here for the first time at the automobile show in Motor Square Garden. These three brothers have worked shoulder to shoulder for 25 years and their record has been one of consistent success.

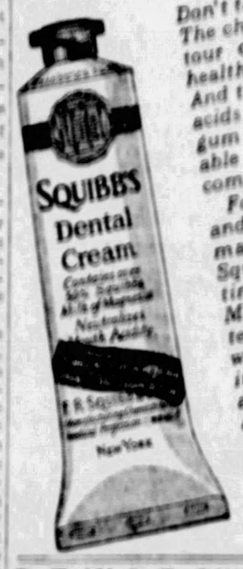
"OLDS" HOLDS HIGH RANK

As a veteran automobile at shows, Oldsmobile ranks high. It is one of but four automobiles now in existence that was on the market when the first exclusively automobile show was held in Madison Square Garden, New York, in November 1900. This initial show was the predecessor of the hundreds of automobile displays being held this year throughout the country.

Incorporated August 21, 1897, Oldsmobile is now in its thirty-first year of continuous activity. In the more than 27 years since the first automobile display it has seen approximately 700 other automobiles come into being.

Oldsmobile was the first car to be produced in commercial quantities, attaining an early leadership with the famous curved dash, one-cylinder Oldsmobile that at that time was the pride of nobility and the subject of the popular song, "In My Merry Oldsmobile." It likewise pioneered in making two and four-cylinder cars, and in its many years of production has introduced many innovations, one of the most recent being chromium plating which is now being extensively used instead of nickel for the plating of radiator shells, bumpers and other parts subject to wear and weather.

Your smile! Guard it at The Danger Line



Don't take chances with your teeth. The charm of your smile, the contour of your face, beauty, even health itself, depend upon them. And the treacherous attacks of the acids which cause tooth decay and gum infections are often unnoticeable to the layman—often unaccompanied by pain.

For full protection, look ahead and use Squibb's Dental Cream, made with more than 50% of Squibb's Milk of Magnesia. Each time you use Squibb's the Milk of Magnesia lodges in the pits on your teeth and at The Danger Line—where teeth and gums meet. There it neutralizes the dangerous acids and remains to give you protection afterwards. Squibb's Dental Cream has a delightful flavor and keeps teeth pearly white all the time. ©1928

ACID IN STOMACH SOURS THE FOOD

(Advertisement.)

Says Excess of Hydrochloric Acid is Cause of Indigestion.

A well-known authority states that stomach trouble and indigestion are nearly always due to acidity—acid stomach—and not, as most folks believe, from a lack of digestive juices. He states that an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach retards digestion and starts food fermentation; then our meals sour like garbage in a can, forming acrid fluids and gases, which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. We then get that heavy, lumpy feeling in the chest, we eructate sour food, belch gas or have heartburn, flatulence, water-brash or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, while it is effervescing, and furthermore, to continue this for one week. While relief often follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used by thousands of stomach sufferers with excellent results.

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup

Easily and cheaply made at home, but it beats them all for quick results.

Thousands of housewives have found how to save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, by using this well-known old recipe for making cough syrup. It is simple and cheap but it has no equal for results. It gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, pour it into a pint bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. If you prefer, use clarified honey, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs—loosens and raises the phlegm, soothes and heals the membranes, and gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and dreaded cough disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, hoarseness or bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable guaiacol, known the world over for its healing effect on membranes.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

It is a most satisfactory treatment for harmful coughs, because (1) it quickly relieves the cough spasms, (2) it soothes the inflamed throat and bronchial tissues, (3) it is absolutely harmless and, most important of all, it helps nature to hasten recovery by clearing the air-passages of germ-laden phlegm.

GRAHAMS USE TEAM WORK

One of the most unusual associations in the automobile business, if not in the whole world of business, is represented by the three Graham brothers, who are introducing their new line of Graham-Paige motor cars at this year's automobile show, through the Pittsburgh Paige Company.

These three brothers have worked shoulder to shoulder for upward of 25 years. Their record has been one of consistent success. They are builders. No important decision relating to any enterprise with which they are associated is made until all three brothers have had a voice in the matter, and until they have reached a thorough agreement.

Joseph B. Graham, eldest of the three brothers, is the manufacturer. He was in control of production in the glass business years ago. He directed the manufacturing throughout the many years that the three brothers were identified with the motor truck industry. He was in charge of manufacturing at the Dodge Brothers plant, and he heads the Graham-Paige production organization today, as well as being president of the corporation.

Robert C. Graham, second brother, is the salesman. From the early days he has taken over the work of marketing the output of Graham-controlled plants. Ray A. Graham, the youngest of the three, has control of finance. He also concerns himself with the public relations of the corporation, and directs its advertising activities.

3 COUNCILMEN EXONERATED

Frank Fair, William E. Harris, Jr., and Frank Terasi, members of the police committee of Sharpsburg Borough council, were exonerated of a charge of conspiracy to violate the national prohibition act today when the federal grand jury ignored the bill of complaint against them.

The charge developed from the alleged disappearance of 76 quarts of whisky, confiscated by Sharpsburg police in a raid.

HOLD DONORA MAN IN ATTACK ON YOUTHS

DONORA, Pa., Jan. 26.—Martin T. Kabanya, 35, business man, waived hearing and was held for court before Justice of the Peace James P. Castner on serious charges involving youths ranging from 14 to 25. He was released on bail pending trial in the Washington county courts. Charges were preferred by J. G. Ryland on information received.

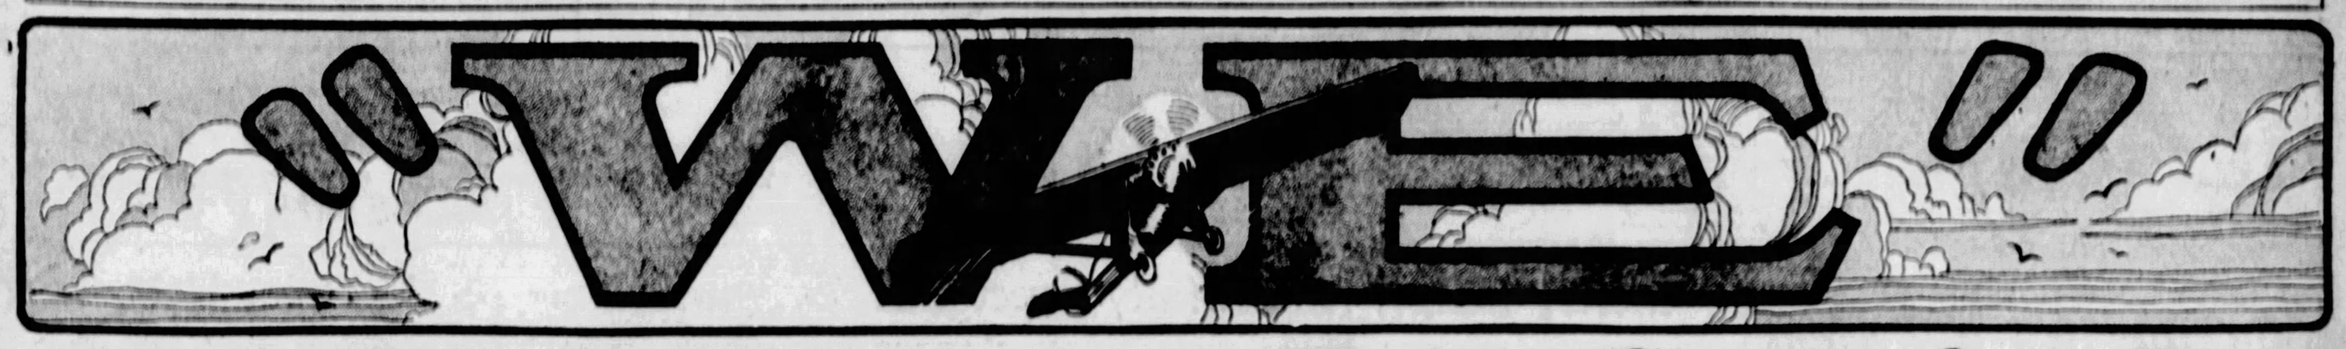
ACOSTA DRAWS JAIL TERM FOR "STUNTING"



"Lindy" as Performer in a Flying Circus Out West

Wingwalking, the Breakaway, Plane Change and Other Hair-Raising Stunts

In his chapter of "We" in the Sun-Telegraph yesterday Col. Lindbergh told of his graduation from Kelly Field with the coveted wings of the aviator, his being commissioned in the reserve and his departure from the Army trainig camp to engage in barnstorming and perform in a flying cicus. In this he had much experience with parachutes and he gave the readers some inside facts about these indispensable devices.

Ticklish Feats of Landing

By COL. CHARLES A. LINDBERGH.

CHAPTER XIX.

AFTER wing-walking came the breakaway. This was accomplished by fastening a cable to the landing gear. The performer went out to the wingtip, fastened his harness to the loose end of the cable and to all appearances fell off the wing. No one on the ground could see the cable and a breakaway always produced quite a sensation. Iron loops were clamped along the cable for use in climbing back up.

One of our feature attractions was the plane change. A rope ladder was attached to the wing of a plane and as one ship flew past the grandstand with the performer standing near the tip of the top wing, a second plane with the ladder attached, passed over the first, so that the ladder was in easy reach of the performer.

We usually made two fake attempts to effect the change and actually counted on the third for success. In this way the feat looked more difficult.

A parachute was attached to the opposite wing from the rope ladder. After the plane change was completed, the performer jumped off with the chute and the show was over.

Fireworks at Night

In the evening we made a night fireworks flight. A series of candles, which when lighted emitted a trail of fire for several hundred feet behind the ship, was attached to each wing. After these candles had burned out, two magnesius flares started burning, lighting up the country below well enough to read a book very clearly. The display was set off by an electric battery in the cockpit.

When the plane reached an altitude of two or three thousand feet, a number of bombs were dropped to attract attention; then the switch was thrown in to start the trails and colored lights, and the ship looped and shunted around the comet-like trail of fire.

Our greatest difficulty in night flying lay in lighting the landing fields from which to operate. Sometimes a number of cars were on the field and I landed and took off across the beams of their headlights. Under such conditions the ground was well illuminated and landing very simple.

On other occasions there would not be more than one car available and in one instance, on a dark night, I took off and landed by the light of a pocket flashlight which one of the men flashed constantly while I was in the air, to enable me to keep track of the landing field.

At one town in Colorado, we were booked for a fireworks exhibition to be given between darkness and midnight. We had been barnstorming during the day and on our way to this town we ran short of lubricating oil. By the time we had replenished our supply it was too late to get in before dark, and I had never landed at that town before.

The owner of the plane, however, was sure that he could easily locate the landing field, even in darkness. He had been there many times and he knew that the field was "right next to the golf links."

We arrived over the town and after circling a few times, I throttled the motor and shouted:

"Where's the field?"

The reply was immediate and full of confidence.

"Right next to the golf links."

"Well, where are the golf links?"

"I don't know."

I was up against another of the very amusing but equally serious incidents in barnstorming life. We were over strange territory on a dark night and with a rapidly diminishing fuel supply. It was imperative to land within a very few minutes, yet it was not possible to tell one field from another, and even the line fences were not visible.

I flew around until the outline of a strawstack appeared in the field below us. This field was outlined on one side by the lighter color of the pasture adjoining it and a number of trees were discerned along the end. There was no way of telling whether it contained posts or ditches, but we had no alternative, and I landed beside the strawstack in the center.

A Flashlight Beacon

A hasty examination of the field showed it to be suitable for night flying and we hailed the first car passing for a ride into the town. We had difficulty in locating our fireworks, and, as the stores were all closed, still more time was lost before we obtained the bailwire, nails and boards used in building the framework for the flares and candles and attaching it to the plane.

It was nearly midnight when the ship was at last ready for the display. Only one can remained on the field. We ran this machine out beside the strawstack and placed it in a position to show up on one side of the stack, in addition to throwing most of its light on the field. I was about to take-off when the headlights on the car became so dim that they were entirely useless. One of the men had a pocket flashlight and I took-off while he threw its beam on the strawstack.

It was 11:40 when I left the ground and 11:57 when the last flare had burned out. Our contract had been fulfilled with three minutes to spare.

I located the field by the flashing of the spotlight and leveled off and landed by its beam.

If the position of a light is known and the field is fairly level, it is not necessary to see the ground, but a plane can be stalled in and landed on the darkest night.

Troubles Landing

Pilots often bring their ships down when only the outline of a field is visible. For this reason it is imperative that no obstructions, such as farm machinery or livestock, be allowed to remain on a landing field over night.

Locating a strange flying field by its position in relation to an equally strange golf course is just one of the many instances in a pilot's life, where comedy goes hand in hand with the most serious situations.

In one instance the story is told of a young pilot who had just learned to fly. He was taking the owner of his plane for a short flight and was demonstrating the various maneuvers he had learned. Finally, he put the machine into a spin, but after several turns discovered that he was not able to come out, and, after trying vainly in every way he could remember hearing of from his instructor, he leaned forward in the cockpit and tensely informed his passenger that they were about to crash.

Not realizing the seriousness of the situation, the owner replied:

"What the — do you care, it's not your ship"

Unreasonable Patrons

It was usually the case that a person inexperienced in the art of flying became quite disturbed over some trivial thing that was of little importance, yet was perfectly at home and enjoying life tremendously at a time when the pilot was straining every effort to avoid disaster.

People would argue indefinitely, trying to persuade one of us to overload the plane past its danger point by carrying more than two passengers at a time from a small field, and it was of no consequence to them whether the plane cleared the nearest trees by a safe margin, or stalled over the uppermost branches by inches.

Explanations on our part were next to useless. If we refused to overload the ship, some one cited an example where a plane had carried several passengers at one time, and it made no difference what kind of a machine it was, or how large an airport it was operating from.

The fact that it carried more passengers than we did indicated that it was operated by a better pilot, and that our plane was not as safe to ride in.

We could struggle along close to the ground trying to get a little altitude and our passengers would have the time of their lives, waving at the people below, but let the motor start to miss, although the plane might be several thousand feet high, with several large fields in sight, and they would glance nervously back at the pilot, wishing that they had never considered taking a ride in an airplane.

(Tomorrow Col. Lindbergh will tell of his last barnstorming, of joining the Missouri National Guard, and engaging in air mail service.)

Auto riding downtown at 4 a. m. is expensive business, these two 21-year-old damsels of 3928 Fifth avenue learned in Morals Court when Magistrate John W. ACOSTA SENT TO JAIL FOR 5 DAYS

NAUGATUCK, Conn., Jan. 26.—(A.P.)—Bert Acosta, famous trans-Atlantic flier, was sentenced to serve five days in New Haven county jail when arraigned in borough court here today on a charge of violating the Connecticut aircraft laws.

Acosta was charged with flying low over Naugatuck yesterday, witnesses claiming that he made one attempt to maneuver his plane beneath the arch of a bridge across the Naugatuck River.

In addition to the jail sentence, Acosta was ordered to pay costs of $19.51.

George Parmartis, chief aviation inspector for Connecticut, arrested Acosta late last night at the Airdrome Inn, in Bethany. Acosta was unable to secure bondsmen and was held for the night in jail in default of $500 bonds.

The police here said they had received no word from New Jersey authorities that Acosta was being sought on a warrant issued in Hackensack, N. J., in connection with unauthorized use of the plane Splitdorf.

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

by HAVEY J. BOYLE

"COULD you inform me?" asks G. R. K., on a postal card, "the present address of the couple that were married publicly on the opening day of the first free bridge in Pittsburgh—the span over the Monongahela River from Soho to the South Side? What was the date of the opening? I also want to find out what year fishing was good in the Monongahela and when walking from Arch street, North Side, to South Tenth street in bare feet was a real pleasure?"

THAT couple the correspondent speaks of left town about a year after the ceremony. They finally got tired of hearing people say to them: "Well, so this is the young couple that got married in connection with the opening of the Twenty-second Street Bridge, eh?"

It is rumored, further, that they have joined a colony formed by (a) the couple that was the first to be married aboard ship; (b) the couple that was first married in an airplane; and (c) the couple that was the first to be married in a downtown office building elevator.

AS FOR the answer to the other questions we looked into our ready book of reference kindly issued by a local concern which gives the result of the last census, the various tables of weights and measures, besides the approximate amperes per terminal for squirrel cage induction motors, but the author somehow overlooked inserting the information asked for in the query.

IN ANOTHER book we carry around with us, just to be able to answer all sorts of questions, we read closely but could find nothing pertaining to the queries propounded. However, if someone wants to know the domestic postage rate, legal holidays in the various states or who holds the standing-sitting-standing diving record we shall be able to do something about it.

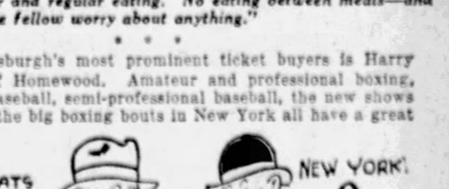
PITTSBURGH has four or five dog and cat hospitals where the wealthy and just so-so residents take their pets to be nursed, operated on or cared for while the owners absent themselves from the city.



These hospitals are divided into wards, private rooms and private suites for the canines and felines. One couple recently took an ailing dog to one of these hospitals and heard the veterinary say: "He needs sunlight, fresh air and regular eating. No eating between meals—and don't let the little fellow worry about anything."

ONE of Pittsburgh's most prominent ticket buyers is Harry Nieman, of Homewood. Amateur and professional boxing, professional baseball, semi-professional baseball, the new shows in New York, the big boxing bouts in New York all have a great customer in Harry, who handles for himself and friends as many tickets in any given year as Sam Watters at Forbes Field. This comes under the heading: Small Town Personals.

IN A recent revue (to drop into the French for a moment) there was a woman upon whose high shoulders fell the burden of pulling a lot of the comedy gags, two or three of them, at least, in need of a little laundering.

On the stage her pose and gestures spelled great sophistication. She suggested something not altogether unlike the conventional portrait of a vampire, 1918 style. A Pittsburgher who ought to know confides that the actress in question is a devout person in religious matters and one who doesn't drink, smoke or chew and has but one husband.

Still, one or two of those jokes she told would defy even those laundries which advertise they'll return the goods on the same day they receive them.

MONEY LOVE by BEATRICE BURTON

Lily Receives a Present Of Toilet Articles From Drummond

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

LILY LEXINGTON, spoiled daughter of the CYRUS LEXINGTONS, is engaged to marry STALEY DRUMMOND, a rich bachelor much older than herself. She is fond of him, but realizes she does not really love him the day after she accepts him, when she becomes instantly and violently infatuated with a taxicab driver whom she sees down town when she goes to meet her chum, SUE CAIN. Forgetting all about Sue, she jumps into his cab and he drives her home. She learns that his name is PAT FRANCE and that he owns his own cab in a company headed by his friend, ROY JETTERSON. She marries Pat. Lily tried, and their domestic ship sailed smoother for a few months. One day Lily met SUE CAIN, an old friend, on the street. Sue invited her to a card party. Lily, without funds, went to a store and tried to charge some clothes to her father. She was informed her mother had left word that "Mrs. Patrick France could not charge things to Mr. Lexington." Staley Drummond pays her bill. She gets a wedding present of a washing machine from the France's.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

"WHAT'S the matter?" he asked.

Still shaking with helpless, half-angry laughter, Lily pointed to the "Laundry Queen," all bright and shining in the sea of torn brown paper.

"That's our wedding present from your family," she gurgled. "A labor-saving device for me so that I can keep on washing your overalls and shirts all the rest of my life, . . . Thoughtful of them to send it, wasn't it?"

He stared at her, plainly puzzled.

"I think it was nice of them to send it," he said. "They know you have to do your own washing—"

"Oh, they do, do they?" asked Lily, fine scorn in her voice and her eyes. "Well, what would you say if I told you that I'd made up my mind not to do it any more at all? What would you say then?"

For some reason it maddened her to hear Pat talk about her doing her own washing in that calm way—just as if there were nothing more to a day's washing than there was to lighting a cigaret or sticking a stamp on an envelope! . . . Didn't he realize how she slaved every Monday with tubs and soap and washboard?

Suddenly she made up her mind not to use that washing machine! This was the time to put her foot down and refuse to have anything to do with it—to have anything further to do with washtubs and wringers!

"I'm not going to do any washings from now on, Pat." She gave him the news very quietly. "When I've reached the point where people are so sorry for me that they start giving me labor-saving devices it's time I turned over a new leaf. . . . Look at those hands! They look like a day-laborer's hands! Look at them!"

She held them out for him to see. "You ought to be ashamed of yourself to let me have hands like these!" she raved. "If you were any kind of a husband you'd hire a laundress for me, Patrick France! Instead of that you encourage your family to give me a washing machine for a wedding present!"

"I didn't know anything about the thing," Pat declared. He tried to take her in his arms as she brushed past him on her way to the bedroom.

But she jerked herself away from him and stood before her mirror with her hands spread out upon the top of her dressing table. . . . What was it Staley had said? . . . "Somehow, I never can think of you as having to work, Lily. . . . I'd have taken care of you. . . . I never should have let you marry anyone but me—"

"He still loves me," she thought, her serious eyes fixed on her lovely image in the mirror. "He's sorry for me because I have to slave the way I do—and all Pat thinks of is having supper on time and getting his overalls washed once a week."

In other words, she had become a household drudge for Pat, while for Staley she was still a very beautiful girl who ought to have married him and let him take care of her forever after.

"He would have taken care of me, too," she said to herself, and as she switched on the lights in the dining room and set the platter of broiled chops on it, she had a swift vision of Staley Drummond's table, with its tall candles, its flowers and the old colored butler hovering over it in his white linen coat. . . . Life would have been entrancing in Staley's luxurious house, after all.

And after supper, while she scraped cold grease from the plates and emptied the garbage into the pail at the back door, she thought of the way coffee was always served in the living room after dinner in Staley's perfectly ordered house.

"I may as well face the fact—I made a mistake when I married," she decided, scrubbing out the sink afterward. "I still love Pat, but Mother and Sue were right. There's a lot more to married life than just love. . . . Love is nothing compared to comfort and a good time."

Tired and aching to the very marrow in her bones, she went straight to bed as soon as the dishes were put away and cried herself to sleep while Pat sat at the sitting room table, drawing pictures of his new piston ring.

The next morning at 10 o'clock the door bell rang. And when Lily flew to answer it a delivery boy came toiling up the steps with a big pasteboard box in his arms.

"Mrs. Lily L. France?" he asked, and as Lily nodded he laid the package on the floor at her feet and ran down the stairs again.

There was a red-and-white label pasted across the top of the box with the words: "Reliable Pharmacy" printed upon it. They had a familiar look, and it was while Lily was opening the box that she remembered that Staley owned some stock in a drug store called the "Reliable."

The box was filled with tissue paper wrapped parcels — pink clover bath salts in a big glass bottle, dusting powder, liquid soap, two jars of cold cream, and a manicure set in a pink tin box—scissors, files, buffer and orange wood sticks. . . . Staley had sent her all the things she had told him she needed when she was with him the day before!

"I suppose I ought to be proper and send them all back," she told herself, as she set them on the glass shelf in the bathroom. "But I'm not going to—"

It represented about $50—that shelf—when she had put all the things upon it.

"I hope Pat won't notice all of them," she thought. "If he does he's sure to scold me for being so extravagant—"

But Pat did not notice them. He was working harder these days than he ever had before, and he seemed to be too busy and too tired to notice much of anything or anybody.

He gave Lily quick, carelessseeming kisses when he left the flat in the morning, and he returned late at night to fall asleep over the sports pages of the evening paper. Not even Gene Tunney's articles kept him awake.

"This," said Lily to herself, sometimes, watching him from the other side of the room, "is the joy of being married! This is what I gave up everything for—to live like this. Eating, sleeping, working—eating, sleeping, working—"

Slowly she was getting herself into a highly dangerous mood—a mood of discontent and disgust. And in the midst of it, one windy, wet October morning, came a letter from Staley Drummond, asking her to meet him the next afternoon!

It had no beginning and no end. It was simply a paragraph typed upon a plain white sheet of office paper.

"I am wondering how you are," it read, "and what you are doing—and if you would like to see me one-tenth as much as I would like to see you tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock in the place where you met me a couple of weeks ago. Did the manicure scissors and the cold cream do any good?"

That was all. But it set Lily's heart to beating as it never had raced before for Staley Drummond. . . . In the gray level of uneventful days this was wildly exciting. To receive a letter from a man who was still in love with her, and to try to make up her mind whether she ought to see him or not.

Deep down in her heart she knew that she was going to see him the next day. . . . Wild horses couldn't have kept her from that meeting. It was something to do—something to think about. Something besides dish-washing, dusting, ironing, marketing and washing clothes in the Laundry Queen that she had sworn never to touch.

CHAPTER XXXVIII.

IT did not strike Lily Lexington France that she was doing a highly dishonest thing when she tucked Staley's letter into her coat pocket that rainy October day and ran down to the drug store to telephone him.

It did not strike her that, when he wrote that letter to her, he was doing the wicked and unscrupulous thing we call "breaking up" another man's home—Pat France's home. Or that he was trying to break it up, at least.

As a matter of fact, she scarcely stopped to consider the right and wrong of what she was doing. . . . It simply seemed to her that here was a chance to have a good time—an exciting time—a "thrill," once more. Something to break into the dull gray life that she had been living for four months within the four walls of the little flat.

Merely Margy, An Awfully Sweet Girl

Story by Lloyd Mayer — By John Held, Jr.

"REALly, my dear, MOTHer SIMply SLAYS me because she's so sentiMENTal and roMANtic, sort of, about LIFE, do you know what I mean? F'r instance, when I TOLD her about ARab's BROTHer who's in the NAvy, my dear, she began to reminiSCE HEAVilly about some SAILor beau of hers who'd been WOOing her before FATHer came aLONG and, my dear, she ACtually waxed LACHrymose on the SUBject, no less! I mean I simply CAN'T underSTAND her VIEWpoint because it's so UTterly arCHAic, my dear, because I mean people like MOTHer ALways seem on the VERGE of TEARS whenever anything reMINDS them of an old BEAU or anything like that, because I mean it seems to reCALL a lot of inGUBrious associAtions, which I think is POSitively perVERted because I mean I practicably ALways am WHIFFling and BURBling with JOY when some bimbo who's been purSUing me madly for ages gives UP because there's ALways someone ELSE coming aLONG, my dear, and valRiety is the SPICE of LIFE, do you know what I mean? But of course in MOTHer's day, my dear, a girl only HAD about two CHANces to get MARried and had to CHOOSE between two EVils, usually, but NOWadays it's so DIFferent because it's a girl's own FAULT if she hasn't DOZens of chances, my dear, and a choice between EVer so many kinds of EVil, do you know what I mean?"

Madge Sticks to Her Own Plans for the Dinner Party

NOEL VERITZEN'S eyes were shining when I had finished my impassioned little declaration that he must come to my welcome home dinner for the Underwoods, no matter what his illustrious father's reaction to the news that the son from whom he had so long been estranged was to be a guest at the same table. I saw that my decided preference of himself to his father, even though the latter were my employer, had pleased him and mitigated the sadness which was always his portion when he thought of his father's obduracy and the foolish pride which had kept the two apart for so long.

"I ought not to be glad at your decision, but I cannot help but be grateful," he said haltingly, "even though I am afraid you are acting unwisely. My father, you know, is—"

He hesitated, patently abashed, and I finished his sentence with a nonchalant little laugh which I hoped would banish his evident fear that I was risking anything by my championship of his cause.

"Is my employer," I said. "Yes, he is, that is true, but I have yet to hear of employers selecting the dinner guests of their employes. That savors altogether too much of 'king and potentates.' Do not worry your head a bit about that part of it. I am not going to be rude, or force any issue. I simply am going to tell your father casually that you are going to be a guest at the dinner. I do not think that even his autocratic spirit will goad him to the discourtesy of asking me to rescind your invitation. You know how royally courteous your father is, and what infinite resourcefulness is his. If he absents himself from the dinner, he will have a most plausible excuse for doing so, he will never refer to it afterward, and there will be no unpleasant consequences for me. You may be assured of that."

He smiled, but there was no mirth in his eyes.

"You are so kind," he said, and then the door was thrown open and Mother Graham sailed into the room, her face and eyes giving more eloquently than words her early Victorian opinion of my behavior in talking to a man even as young as Noel Veritzen behind closed doors.

"I have been looking everywhere for you, Margaret," she said in a tone that I knew of old spelled acute displeasure. "Richard is on the telephone and wishes to speak to you."

Glad indeed was I that her message gave me an excuse to flee.

"Tell Mary I am sorry to have kept you so long away from the veranda," I said teasingly, and carefully avoiding a glance at my mother-in-law's face which I was sure wore a disapproving frown, I hurried to the telephone.

Dick's voice, carefully courteous as is his wont during these days of our estrangement, came to my ears.

"Lil tells me she is coming down with Marion on Saturday," he began, then paused, evidently awaiting an answer.

I never have marshaled my thoughts more rapidly than I did during the next few seconds. His hesitation awakened my suspicions. Had Lillian told him casually enough, as she very well might, that Philip Veritzen was driving them down in his car, and was he childishly waiting to see whether I would refrain from mentioning that feature of Lillian's projected visit? Or was he still in ignorance of my employer's plan to spend some time in the east end of the island?

ANOTHER UNSOLICITED TRIBUTE FOR ALL-BRAN

Good news for sufferers from constipation

Mrs. Kiell sat down and wrote us a letter when she had proved ALL-BRAN a safe "sure-cure" for constipation. Read her voluntary tribute:

April 4, 1927

"I have been using Kellogg's ALL-BRAN for quite some time and I want to tell you how much I appreciate it. I have found it a sure-cure for constipation, and know it is a remarkable regulator for the stomach. After using it, my family and I certainly will not be without it. I have even gone so far as to send some of it to my mother in Poland, Europe."

Gratefully yours,
Mrs. Anna Kiell,
77 Wolcott Terrace, Newark, N. J.

Perhaps you know what a terrible affliction constipation is. Blighting wherever it thrives. Ruining health. Marring beauty. Causing headaches, back pains, foul breath, loss of sleep—indeed, leading to more than forty serious diseases.

But did you know it can be easily relieved by a pleasant cereal food? Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to bring relief. Eat two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal. Serve with milk or cream—fruits or honey added. Use in cooking. At grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

End Fat

The way is now easy and pleasant

Anybody who suffers from excess fat should learn what modern science offers. Don't starve, don't over-exercise. Combat the real cause. Supply your system with that which turns food into fuel and energy rather than into fat.

Modern research discovered that way some two decades ago. It was then embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 20 years—millions of boxes of them. Today the results are seen and told everywhere. Most people are slender. All modern styles are adapted to them. They have supplied their systems with the natural factors which prevent the formation of fat.

Users of Marmola do not attempt abnormal exercise or diet, though moderation helps. They simply take four tablets daily until weight comes down to normal. New vivacity, new health comes at the same time.

The methods are not secret. Each box of Marmola contains the formula and the reasons for results. You know what you are taking, and the scientific reasons for the benefits which come.

Start Marmola now. You cannot afford to stay fat. Beauty, health and fitness require normal weight. Watch the results for a month, and they will delight you. Then tell the facts to others. Why wait another day?

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 per box. If your druggist is out, he will get them at once from his jobber.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

ociety Girls Discard Play for Real Work to Plan Philanthropic and Civic Betterment

BEING a society girl is by no means all play and no work, as you would have seen both yesterday and today at the gional conference of the Junior League. These young women eally work, mostly along lines of philanthropy and civic betterment, and they are planning a lot more work for the future.

This region includes the Junior Leagues of Ohio, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Michigan, Delaware, West Virginia and the District of Columbia, and, of course, the local league is the conference hostess. Augusta Leovy is president.

After registration yesterday at the new club rooms in the Women's Exchange, there was a luncheon in the home of Mrs. Herbert May, in Beacon street. At the meeting which followed, Mrs. Kleon Thaw Brown, regional director, gave a talk on the provisional training course, and Forsyth Patterson, of Sewickley, discussed town betterment projects. Later, Margaret McClintic and Margaret McCargo entertained at tea in their homes, and last night Mrs. Alan Magee Scaife, the former Sarah Mellon, who was president of the local league last year, gave a dinner in the Pittsburgh Golf Club.

Today is "Country Day," and all the delegates are in Sewickley, where they are meeting in the Allegheny Country Club. Among the topics under discussion today are the duties of the sponsors and the expansion of the league, as well as the best methods of getting young girls interested in the work. Mrs. Charles A. Lindley, who is editor of the Junior League magazine, talked on "News Sheets," and the members brought up such interesting themes as children's theaters, the arts, a community chest and the best ways of keeping the older members in touch with civic progress.

There was a luncheon in the clubhouse, and after the meeting Mrs. Harry Darlington, Jr., entertained the delegates at tea in her home. Several dinners are on schedule for tonight, one of them to be given by Augusta Leovy.

In addition to Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Lindley, the guests of honor at the conference are Mrs. Carleton H. Palmer, president of the American Junior League Association; Miss Emily Anderson, field secretary; Miss Harriet Gibbs, member-at-large of this section, and Mrs. Leslie Snyder, who is secretary.

Virginia Hill was married yesterday at 5:30 o'clock to Frederick Rufus Crawford, son of Mrs. Rufus Choate Crawford of Albemarle street, at a pretty wedding in the Sixth Presbyterian Church, with the Rev. Dr. H. H. Forsyth officiating. Virginia, you know, is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Harry Schuyler Nicholson of Shady avenue. She wore a gown of ivory velvet built with a full court train, and her veil, falling from a headdress of duchesse lace, was of rose point lace and tulle, an heirloom in the family. Her flowers were white orchids and gardenias showered with lilies of the valley.

The girls of the bridal party were all dressed alike in ivory satin touched with American Beauty velvet, with hats to match, and they carried American Beauty roses and snapdragon. Virginia's sisters, Mrs. John F. Kiser and Mrs. Charles Bedell Monro, were her matrons of honor, and her maid of honor was Jean Brown Scott of Philadelphia. The bridesmaids included Janet Schuyler Nicholson, another sister of the bride; Mrs. Charles Henry Altmiller of Hazleton, sister of Mr. Crawford, and Mrs. Albert Horne Burchfield, Jr.

John Haller Hardie was best man, and the ushers were charles Henry Altmiller of Hazleton, Albert Horne Burchfield, Jr., and Charles Bedell Monro of Pittsburgh, John F. Kiser of Towanda, George E. W. Cornelius of Beaver, William Todd, Jr., and Rozier James Beech of Washington, D. C. A reception and dinner followed the ceremony in the University Club. The young Crawfords have left for a month's trip to Cuba.

CONGRESS CLUB EMPLOYS NEW RULES AT ELECTION

The first nominating committee under the new ruling was elected yesterday by the Congress of Clubs as follows: Mrs. John R. Hermes, chairman; Mrs. S. J. Corbett, Mrs. Sherman Massingham, Mrs. William C. McClure, Mrs. Samuel E. Doescher, Mrs. James Sprague, Mrs. J. H. Lesley, Mrs. C. W. Kenney, Mrs. E. H. Bingler and Mrs. Carl Bushnell. The occasion was the quarterly all-day meeting of the Congress which was attended by more than 200 women, who heard extraordinarily fine programs both morning and afternoon. The invocation by the president, Mrs. Carl E. Cuslowsky, and the salute to the flag, led by Mrs. Ellen J. Moore, followed by the state song, started the proceedings. The Congress Choral under Earl B. Collins and accompanied by Mrs. Emily D. Boydston sang three numbers, and the address of the morning was by Ray A. Tucker, director of the Aero Club of Pittsburgh, who spoke on "The Progress of Commercial Aeronautics in the United States."

The Rev. Dr. E. C. McCowan made the afternoon invocation, there was music, Negro spirituals by the Tuskegee Jubilee Singers, together with an interesting little talk by their spokesman, and violin solos by Conrad Matter, for whom his sister, Miss Elizabeth Matter, was accompanist. This young man plays with a depth of tone and feeling most admirable. The high light of the afternoon, however, was the intensely interesting talk given by Philip Martindale, forest ranger in charge of the Old Faithful district in Yellowstone National Park, who told in a uniquely entertaining fashion of the geological history of the park, pointing out several features not usually noted by tourists, of the fur-bearing animals and their curious habits and of the life of the rangers in the crude, snowbound region, where the temperature gets to 40 and 50 degrees below zero. Some fine films were shown in illustration. Miss Elizabeth Campbell, president of the Girls' Conference, spoke of the work of her organization to close the full program and later many of the Congress members dropped in at the conference tea which was being held downstairs in honor of the new workers.

Miss Fannie Hurst, who is in Pittsburgh to write a series of articles for The Sun-Telegraph, will be guest of honor at a dinner to be given by the Congress of Clubs tomorrow night. Mrs. Earl R. Coslowsky, Congress president, will present Miss Hurst and there will be a program of music.

"The Old Maids' Return from the Klondike," a one-act play, supplemented by a comedy feature film, "The Family Upstairs," will be given by the Sheraden Parent-Teacher Association tomorrow and Saturday evenings in Langley High School. The play is under the direction of Mrs. Andrew Auchterlonie, dramatic chairman, and is a sequel to last year's production, "The Old Maids' Convention."

Three outstanding events will engage the attention of Tuesday Musical Club members during February. An opera program with some unsual features will be given on the regular meeting day, February 14; the annual benefit card party is dated for the twenty-first at the Hotel Schenley, and the season's manuscript program will be an event of the twenty-eighth, under the direction of Miss Gertrude Goeddel. Mrs. Minna Kaufmann Ruud and Mrs. H. Talbot Peterson are arranging the opera program, the soprano numbers of which will be sung by Mrs. Emma Albert Dean, Mrs. Rebecca Hepner, Mrs. Leone M. Woelfel and Mrs. Jessie Yuille Yon. Contraltos on the program will be Miss Virginia Kendrick and Mrs. Gertrude S. Thomas and in addition to the club's own members William Brennan, tenor, and Arthur Anderson, bass, will sing. Miss Katherine Hessler will accompany and six voices from the choral will assist, while an ensemble of strings, conducted by Victor Saudek, will be an added and interesting feature.

Mrs. Edyth Martin will speak on "Fiduciary Service" before the Squirrel Hill Community Club in the Roosevelt School tomorrow afternoon. Mrs. L. A. Lee will be leader. The social committee is sponsoring a dance and card party at the Morrowfield tomorrow night.

OIL WITNESS IS SLUGGED

GIVES SOLUTION TO MAGNET PUZZLE

"Save the surface and you save all," the national paint promotion slogan apparently can be quite properly applied to magnets.

The latter application is suggested by a theory explaining a magnetic "puzzle" noted by Arthur Brisbane in his "Today" column of last Monday.

The theory is that of Emil Hallgren, a mechanical engineer of 1102 Sheffield street, North Side. It was propounded by Mr. Hallgren after he read Mr. Brisbane's comment on the fact that a hollow magnet, it has been found, is stronger than a solid one.

Mr. Hallgren's explanation of the puzzle follows:

"In electrical conductors, the capacity to carry currents depends upon the surface-area of the solid metal, rather than upon the sectional area of same, and as magnetism is but a branch of electricity, a hollow magnet should therefore be more powerful than a solid one of same outside dimensions, as containing more surface areas.

Seemingly the electrons field for 'spinning' is located at the surface, the boundary between the solid, or metal conductor, and the surrounding air, or rather ether, thus also explaining transmission by radio.

WOMAN BEATEN, ROOM RANSACKED

By International News Service

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—Police today were running down clues to capture the mysterious intruder who last night entered a downtown hotel and slugged Mrs. Jeanette Lanz over the head with a heavy weapon. She was injured seriously.

Mrs. Lantz and her husband, William Lantz, of Millbourne, Pa., are here to testify in the Burns-Sinclair contempt trial.

She reported also that while they were absent on Tuesday their hotel room was ransacked, with clothes and papers strewn over the floor and bed.

FINDS WIFE GAGGED

Mrs. Lantz complained of feeling ill after yesterday's court session and went to her room to rest. After dinner Lantz came into the room and found his young wife bound hand and foot and gagged with a towel. After recovering somewhat, Mrs. Lantz declared that a man in a gray hat and blue suit came into the room and without a word of warning hit her on the head with a heavy weapon.

Lantz, although reluctant to talk of his connection with the contempt case, revealed that he was summoned as witness by the defense to attack the character of William J. McMullin, ex-Burns agent and later government spy. McMullin is a star witness for the government, having testified that he was forced by the Burns Agency to sign a false affidavit about a Fall-Sinclair juror he was shadowing.

A search of the room revealed that one letter was missing. It was a note from Mrs. Lantz to her husband and contained references to McMullin.

The attack upon Mrs. Lantz and the theft of a letter which the defense said it had intended to offer in evidence, was brought to the judicial notice of Justice Siddons in District Supreme Court today when the Burns-Sinclair contempt hearing was resumed.

Justice Siddons expressed the hope the assailant would be arrested, but said there was nothing else he could do under the circumstances.

ACCEPT TRINITY CHURCH FOR CATHEDRAL

Trinity Protestant Episcopal Church, Sixth avenue, was accepted as the cathedral church of the Pittsburgh diocese of the Episcopal Church at the general diocese convention which closed last night in the downtown edifice.

The merger of Trinity Church and the Chapter of Trinity Cathedral Church of the Diocese of Pittsburgh will not be completed for more than four months.

When it is consummated and after a charter has been obtained, the Rev. Dr. Percy G. Kammerer, rector, will be the dean of the cathedral. The speakers at yesterday's sessions were W. H. Overs, former bishop in Liberia and E. G. Chrelman of the Near East Relief Committee.

OAKLAND MOTOR HEAD PREDICTS RECORD SALES

More than 200 Oakland-Pontiac automobile dealers yesterday heard W. R. Tracy, vice president in charge of sales of the Oakland Motor Car Company, predict new automobile sales records for 1928, at the annual Pittsburgh district dealer meeting in the Pittsburgh Athletic Association.

"The country, generally, is prosperous," said Mr. Tracy, "and there is a greater automobile consciousness today than ever before. Last year there was a smaller motor car market than we expected, because of several retarding influences on sales which have since been removed. This will increase the sales of motor cars in all classes, and bring, theoretically at least, a half million more new car sales into this year than would normally be the case."

Other speakers included M. E. Zetterholm, Pittsburgh district manager; W. M. Chamberlin, manager of sales development; E. M. Lubeck, Western sales manager. A banquet in the P. A. A. closed the session.

PUT PADLOCK ON CAFE

The dining room, second floor of a building at 23 Greene street, conducted by Max Cryns, was ordered "padlocked" for one year by Federal Judge R. M. Gibson, because of being used in violating the prohibition law. Counsel for the owner of the building agreed to dismantle the barroom and rent the first floor for legitimate business purposes.

A temporary "padlock" injunction was granted against the proprietor and owner of a four-story hotel at 924 William Penn way, pending a final hearing March 5 in an injunction proceeding instituted by the prohibition authorities.

PLAN DISPLAY OF NEW ELECTRIC REFRIGERATOR

A new series of improved household electric refrigerators will be placed on display here today by the Suburban Electric Development Company, distributors for the Frigidaire Company. The display coincides with a general announcement of new cabinets throughout the country. The new improvements will be explained at regional meetings of the field organization of the company to be held next month.

Careless Washing Spoils Children's Hair

Any child can have beautiful hair—healthy and luxuriant. It is simply a matter of shampooing.

Proper shampooing makes the hair soft and silky. It brings out all the real life and luster, all the natural wave and color, and leaves it fresh looking, glossy and bright.

While children's hair must have frequent and regular washing to keep it beautiful, fine young hair and tender scalps cannot stand the harsh effect of ordinary soaps. The free alkali in ordinary soaps soon dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and ruins it.

That is why thoughtful mothers everywhere now use Mulsified Cocoanut Oil Shampoo. This clear, pure and entirely greaseless product brings out all the real beauty of the hair and cannot possibly injure.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather which cleanses thoroughly and rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust and dirt.

It leaves the hair soft and easy to manage and makes it fairly sparkle with new life, gloss and luster.

You can get Mulsified Cocoanut Oil Shampoo at any drug store.

A four-ounce bottle lasts for months.

Said Tristam Speaker
To Tyrus Cobb,
"Well, Well, what's this—
No baseball job!"

"Our turnstile pull
Is getting weaker,"
Said Tyrus Cobb
To Tristam Speaker

WHILE Speaker and Cobb appear to be out of employment, it is a fact that quite a few ball clubs would like to land either star, but the salary question stands out as a severe barrier. Tris and Ty, it seems, have been helped financially by the wave of fortune that followed Babe Ruth, the main difference being that neither is the same kind of a drawing card.

COBB, it is reliably reported, drew $60,000 from Connie Mack and Company for his services in 1927. And that wasn't all, for Ty is said to have shared in the exhibition games played by the Athletics; moreover, there was a stipulation in his contract which provided that in the event that the A's got in the World Series Ty was to get an additional $15,000.

COBB can still play with the Athletics if he accepts a reduction suitable to Mack and his associates. Ty is liked in Philly, but he is not worth the figure he received last season. If he is, then Ruth is entitled to twice $70,000.

SPEAKER, good authority states, was paid $25,000 at Washington. Clarke Griffith has delivered an ultimatum on Tris. Apparently Griffith is not the sort of a person to let so much money get away unless he is assured that he is to get something better in return. It is said that Tris was not such a keen drawing card in Washington, but it should be considered that few players are "cards" when their club is not in the race.

DON'T be surprised if you hear of the Pirates angling for Graceful Tris. The grey eagle, however, is not as accessible as the news reports of his "release" suggest. Under the new laws relative to releases a player is not free until February 15, the date having been moved back from February 1. Furthermore, it is not believed that all American League teams have waived on Tris; in fact such a clearance is hardly likely. Before the National League clubs could get a "crack" at Speaker the teams in his own circuit would have to grant the necessary waivers.

TRIS—in a Pirate uniform surely would add to the skill of the Waner kids. Although both Paul and Lloyd are natural ball hawks they are not up on many things that have come to Speaker in his score of years in the major leagues.

BARNEY DREYFUSS, Pirate owner, prefers to leave the matter up to his manager.

"I would have to find out what Bush thinks about it before we would proceed," said Dreyfuss today in discussing the veteran's status.

UNIVERSAL BASEBALL TEAM IS DISBANDED

The Universal Portland Cement Company baseball team, which won the Class A title in 1927 and represented Pittsburgh in the Inter-city tourney in Detroit, will not return to competition this season, it was announced today. In addition to its 1927 feat, the Universal team won the local title in 1925 and finished as runner-up in the race in 1923, '24 and '26. It is rumored that the Universal players may be enrolled in the Community team at North Braddock.

WEE ONES HEADLINE TUBE CITY CARD

JACKIE RODGERS, Negro flyweight of the North Side, gets a chance to prove his ability tonight, when he engages Luis Carpentero, the hard-hitting Filipino of Toledo, in the 10-round windup at McKeesport. The Tube City fans already know how tough Carpentero is, for they saw him put Willie Davies down a few times before losing the decision to Willie. They also have seen Rodgers look good in preliminary bouts and will see him for the first time in the role of a headliner.

In his main bout debut, at Johnstown, recently, Rodgers scored an impressive four-round knockout victory over Bobby Burke of Reading, who announced his retirement from the ring after this setback, the first knockout defeat of his career.

Harry Taylor of the North Side and Phil Scello of McKeesport will mix in another 10-round bout on the card, and there will be two six-rounders. Georgie Peck of the North Side will oppose Allen Beatty of Uniontown in the second event and Monte Sirko of Soho and Young Angelo of Swissvale will open the show.

U. S. Carpentier of New Kensington boxes Dick Canal of Youngstown at East Liverpool, O., tonight. Red Mason, Carpentier's manager, who has just returned from New York, will second him.

Young Saylor of Charleroi and Gorilla Jones are booked for 10 rounds at Marietta, O., tonight.

A team of local amateur boxers will clash with a Detroit team at Detroit tonight.

Stanley Simmons, local light-heavyweight, has been matched for a return bout with Jack O'Connell of Cleveland at New Castle, February 6. Eddie Weygandt, former featherweight boxer, is the promoter.

SOCCER by NEWS TOMBIRKS

THE American Soccer League, at a special meeting held last night, severely censured the German Sports Club for its action in leaving the field in a recent game with Heidelberg, national amateur champions, at Heidelberg. Buck Donnelli of the champions, and Zetel, German back, the two players who were ordered off the field by Referee Donaghay were also taken to task by the league.

It was the banning of Zetel, after it was claimed that he and Donnelli of the champions had been enraged in some rough play, that caused the Germans to leave the field and game. At the meeting last night, after Referee Donaghy had presented his report of the occurrence, Manager Meisenberg put the Germans' case before the league and it was probably his stating of the case and plea that saved the club from temporary banishment.

No cup tie games will be played this week end for a change, all of the local leagues however will swing into action and while some of the loops have practically decided just where the pennant will rest, the games scheduled should draw quite a patronage.

Pop May Test Two-Team Plan At Stanford

PALO ALTO, Cal., Jan. 26.—Pop Warner, head coach of Stanford University, may inaugurate a two-football-team system next fall, he said. He plans to have "A" and "B" teams, the "A's" to be composed of seniors, and the "B's" of juniors. Sophomores would substitute on both teams.

CHICAGO IS EAGER TO SEE ARMY ELEVEN

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—(INS.)—Chicago wants to see the Army football eleven in action here this fall. The city was officially on record to that effect today in the form of a letter written by Mayor William Hale Thompson to Secretary of War Davis.

In view of the Army-Navy split over the eligibility code, the Cadets will have an open date on November 24, when Navy is tentatively scheduled to play Princeton. Chicagoans, who viewed the great service classic here in 1926, are eager to take advantage of this situation to bring the Army squad back this fall.

Bumbera, 38, graduate of the school of pharmacy, University of Pittsburgh, class of 1912, a member of the Panther band, an ardent sport fan and an enthusiastic golfer, passed unto his reward early yesterday morning. McKechnie In Winter Role

SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS

"HES ONLY A VOLUNTEER"

Remember the old song, "He Don't Belong to the Regulars; He's Only a Volunteer?" Well, Wilkinsburg Bill McKechnie may look like a movie fireman in this outfit, but it is a fact that the manager of the St. Louis Cardinals and former manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates could compete with any fireman in the business in the matter of physical endurance, for he's always in good condition. Bill whiles away many a winter afternoon waiting for the call of spring and his baseball duties by hobnobbing with the members of the Wilkinsburg Fire Department and he willingly obliged the photographer by assuming this heroic pose.

BILL WARBLES SWEETLY

When McKechnie rises to sing a solo, he always gets a very respectful audience, for he is a singer of real merit. Here he is shown entertaining the boys of the Wilkinsburg Fire Department with one of his many numbers. Fireman Peter Weber is the accompanist and HOW!

MITINGER TO TAKE POST

By JESS CARVER.

JIM MARKS, football coach, gentleman, scholar and poet, who can sport a "James Lafayette" on his calling cards if he so wishes, but prefers to be known as just plain Jim, who has launched a thousand, more or less, all-America football players, has retired from the head coaching job at Kiski and in the future will devote his time to his duties as dean of the institution and in training the secondary and junior football teams.

JIM MARKS.

Bob Mitinger, a star at Kiski in his prep school days and later varsity guard at Lafayette under Jock Sutherland, present Pitt coach, has been selected to succeed the Sage. He is at present a practicing attorney at Greensburg. He graduated from the Pitt law school after completing his course at Lafayette.

The announcement of Jim Marks' retirement will be received with regret on the part of all those who know of Kiski and know of the fame and prestige that Marks has brought to the Kiskiminetas Springs. The regret is partially assuaged by knowledge of the fact that James Lafayette will still be on hand, both as advisory coach and dean. The total loss of Jim Mrks at Kiski would be the most severe of blows.

Marks has become famous as "the coach who never played football," but who has turned out more all-America players than any other prep school coach in the country. Jimmy DeHart, Herb and Russ Stein, Tom Davies, Stuhldreher, Bartell, Schwab, Ames and a flock of other stars who made all-America teams, were developed by

MACKMEN, RED SOX BID FOR SPOKE

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26—Having been given his release by the Senators, Tris Speaker today is preparing to consider several other offers from major and minor league clubs.

According to reports here it is said that the Philadelphia Athletics, the Boston Red Sox and the Giants were seeking the veteran outfielder and would make him reasonable propositions.

From Philadelphia came word that Connie Mack would gladly make room for Speaker on his 1928 Athletics if Tris would accept the terms of his club. Mack said that the Athletics were not in a position to give Speaker a large salary, but that the club was willing to offer him good terms.

The Giants, too, are said to be after a man since losing Rogers Hornsby and they are said to have offered Speaker a big figure, though not one as high as that which he received from the Senators last year.

Bob Quinn, the Red Sox owner, also would like to have Speaker back at Fenway Park. Quinn would sign him at a good salary if Tris wants to return to the city where he first attracted attention as one of the best fly-chasers in the country.

The reports that Speaker will go to the Jersey City International League club will not down. Speaker has been given the opportunity to buy a good part of the stock of the club and it is probable he will join

THEY'RE going to let Dr. Otto Peltzer run in the United States after all. The German amateur athletic authorities had him barred, because they were afraid he'd run himself into the ground and ruin his chances in the Olympic Games, but, in view of his insistence, they finally have given in and withdrawn their objections and the A. A. U., has decided to permit him to compete in a limited number of events, all of them in New York, and including the National championships.

Dr. Peltzer will give us an idea of just how good he is in these tests and at the same time a real line on the ability of the high-

Bucs Give Mueller Retired Star, Release

Walter Mueller, who has been on the reserve list for six years, has been released outright to the Indianapolis Club of the American Association, it was announced last night by Sam Dreyfuss, treasurer of the Pittsburgh club.

Mueller, the man who hit the first pitched ball tossed his way in the big leagues for a home run, and who played most of a season with a severely injured neck has given up the game on two occasions, to attend to his drayage business in St. Louis. He recently was returned to the eligible list.

And here we have the caretaker of the Redbirds engaged in a battle of dominoes. Bill's rival for the title is none other than Chief Robert W. Wallace of the Wilkinsburg Fire Department.

WILKINSBURG FIRE CO. CLAIMS M'KECHNIE

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

THE Carrick Volunteer Fire Department was a crack organization, take it from Hoseman Havey Boyle of the Hook and Ladder Section, but the Carrick boys might have had embarrassing moments if they had competed against the All-Star outfit affording comfort and consolation to Wilkinsburg.

Augmented by Willie McKechnie, famed character of the diamond, who is an honorary member, the Wilkinsburg firefighters are a versatile lot. Aside from the skill they display in line of duty, the Wilkinsburg fire house offers vocal and instrumental soloists, topnotch checker and domino players and other entertainers and performers.

The home of the Wilkinsburg firemen is a favorite stopping place for Skipper Bill. When McKechnie is not scheming to outdo the Pirates, Giants, Cubs and other contenders, he is apt to be found with his firemen friends these mid-winter days.

STATE FROSH CARD FULL

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Jan. 26.—Six games have been scheduled for the Penn State Freshman basketball team for the current season, Neil M. Fleming, graduate manager, announced today. An additional game with the sophomores, the annual class scrap, has been arranged also.

SHOTS and PASSES

by Julius Levin

ONE of the feature attractions of the Allegheny Mountain Association elimination series now in progress is scheduled at the Hill Top Y. M. C. A. tomorrow night when the Hill Top varsity passers clash with the Hill Top Y. M. C. A. Maroons.

Preparations have been made to handle an overflow crowd as both teams boast large followings. There is unusual rivalry existing between the two contenders for the amateur championship and indications point to a nip-and-tuck contest from start to finish.

THE Red McMahan Club of the South Side is continuing its mad spurt in junior basketball circles, having scored its twentieth successive victory at the expense of Faith Chapel Juniors.

Composed of youngsters who thrive on a swift, passing attack, the McMahans are making a determined bid for the championship of their class this winter.

Jeske and Huddy, forwards, have been playing a consistently good game for the McMahans all season, one reason why the club at the present time boasts a clean record.

THE Young Men's Hebrew Association basketball teams will begin their fight for the Allegheny Mountain Association championships next Saturday night when the varsity and reserve quintets engage strong rivals in first-round matches.

The varsity passers meet the Springdale Amicus Club in the main attraction, while the reserves clash with the Harmony Club leader in the Metropolitan League. Both games are scheduled on the Y. M. H. A. floor.

Preceding the two elimination games, the Young Women's Hebrew Association girls will meet the Tumblers.

FIRST U. P. COMMUNITY HOUSE begins its battle for the A. A. U. championship tonight when it meets the crack South Side Falcons, runners-up in last year's tournament, on the Community floor, Union avenue, North Side.

Coach Weber has been driving his passers hard all week in preparation for the opening tournament game and they will take the floor tonight bent on scoring a victory in the opening round. The Community passers are banking on Richardson and Bierwirth, their star scoring combination, to bear the brunt in tonight's contest.

DRIBBLES

Two games are scheduled tonight in the Pioneer Lyceum League, St. Richards clashing with Homestead St. Michaels and St. Joseph's Protectory engages Manchester Community.

Reliance Life will make its first appearance of the season at Columbus Temple tonight when it clashes with the Sumer Somerman Club in a P. & O. League battle.

Bill Schuster will take his Broadway Club to Butler tonight to meet the Veterans of Foreign Wars in an Allegheny County League game. Tomorrow night the Duquesne Lafayettes clash with Broadway on the Beechview floor.

Three attractive games will feature the benefit basketball program scheduled at the South Side Market House tomorrow night, the proceeds of which will be donated to the fund being raised for the destitute miners in this vicinity. The feature attraction will be the Goldenson-All Stars game.

Director Is Lauded

REPORTS that John Holahan, director of athletics at Duquesne University, has been asked to resign his position, were vehemently denied in a statement issued this morning by Father McDermott, chairman of the athletic committee of the Bluff university.

"We are well satisfied with Mr. Holahan's work as athletic director and rumors that we were contemplating discharging him are a gross injustice not only to the athletic director, but to the school," Father McDermott said in denying the rumor. "To show how we appreciate what Mr. Holahan has accomplished for athletics at Duquesne," Father McDermott continued, "we are seriously considering making him graduate manager of athletics next year."

The Rev. Father John F. Dodwell, faculty manager at Duquesne, likewise issued a denial concerning the report that Holahan would be asked to resign. "There have been many student managers at Duquesne," Father Dodwell said, "but the name of John Holahan will go down in Duke history as one to conjure with. I have been associated with the sports activities of Duquesne for the past seven years and in all that time I have not encountered a student manager who has displayed a devotion to duty, cleverness, business ability and whole-hearted interest in the progress of Duquesne's sports activties that can compare with what Holahan has shown. Any dissatisfaction with his endeavors may be credited to the jealousy of certain parties who have forgotten the best interests of the university in their eagerness to vent a private grudge. To the ravings of such, 'twere folly to pay any heed."

Marks during his 13 years at Kiski

IS W.-J. GRAD

After graduating from Wash.-Jeff in 1907, Marks went to Kiski as a professor of Latin. He had never taken an active part in football, though he had studied the game more or less intently, but after taking over his professorship at Kiski began interesting himself in the game.

BOB MITINGER.

In 1913, during the summer of the year, he was appointed head coach, after having served in the capacity of an assistant and advisor for three years. He made good from the start, turning out smart, well drilled and capable elevens, that battled their various ways to the top of American prep school football.

Many of his ideas, his trick plays and formations furnished Pop Warner with material, out of which he developed his own great plays which have become known from coast to coast wherever football is played as "Warner" plays. Marks and Warner are close friends, and Jim made the trip to the coast this year to see Pitt and Stanford battle.

With Marks taking over the development of the junior teams and the intra-mural league elevens, Kiski's varsity elevens in the years to come will be served with well trained material, even at such an early stage, and the college and university varsities, who subsequently get these Kiski men are going to have fine outlays of all-America prospects.

The Marks-Mitinger combination really opens a new era in football at Kiski, one that should be as brilliant as the past.

ANNOUNCEMENT CONFIRMED

GREENSBURG, Pa.—Jan. 26.—Announcement of the appointment of Robert B. Mitinger of Greensburg as football coach at Kiski from that place this morning was confirmed by Mitinger at his law office here. He is a practicing attorney, having recently been admitted to the Westmoreland county bar.

Heavyweight Ballyhoo

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 26.—(AP.)—Ben Peltberg, New York and Philadelphia fight promoter, today wired Gene Tunney at Miami an offer of $100,000 to defend his world's heavyweight crown in this city against Tommy Loughran, light-heavyweight champion. The bout would be held next summer at the Municipal Stadium, where Tunney won his title from Jack Dempsey.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—Gene Tunney, heavyweight boxing champion, now vacationing in Florida, has turned down an invitation to participate in the Shakespearian festival at the Metropolitan Opera House here, Sunday.

possibility of a meeting between Lloyd Hahn, the Boston A. A.'s crack miler, and Ivo Otto Peltzer of Germany, at the Millrose A. A. games in New York on February 2 was indicated here today by Jack Ryder, B. A. A. coach.

"Why not settle the thing at the Millrose games," Ryder said. "They're both entered in that. Hahn in the mile and Peltzer in the 880. Hahn's perfectly willing to shift to the half if the officials are willing."

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—(AP.)—Johnny Behr, physical director of the Illinois Athletic Club, is awaiting the arrival of Dr. Otto Peltzer, German middle distance track champion, before completing arrangements for Peltzer's race with Lloyd Hahn, American champion, as the feature event on the I. A. C. meet here on February 10.

Behr said Peltzer was due in Chicago today from the Pacific Coast.

touted Lloyd Hahn, America's best middle-distance bet.

A YEAR or so ago, Young Stribling, the South's heavyweight prodigy, passed from the management of his father, Pa Stribling, to the direction of Walk Miller, who had piloted Tiger Flowers and other boxers to the top, and it was generally predicted that Strib would accomplish great things. It was charged that he had been grossly mismanaged by his father, whose intentions were admitted to have been of the best but hardly calculated to work out as well as those of an experienced outsider.

Well, stribling was a beautiful flop under the management of Miller. He just about ruined his prestige and appeared to be definitely out of the picture. So, recently, he went back to Pa again and he has fought his last two or three bouts under the old system. On Monday night, he did a rather amazing thing, knocking out Marty Burke of New Orleans in 10 seconds at Miami. Burke is a cagy veteran who has held off the best.

Perhaps, after all, it was a mistake for the Striblings to part company in the first place.

LAWSON ROBERTSON, head coach of the United States Olympic track and field squad, dates back the start of his career as an Olympian almost a quarter of a century, to 1904, when he competed in the sprints and jumps at St. Louis and finished second in the high jump. He was a big, rangy Scottish lad, standing 6 feet 1 inch in height and scaling almost 200 pounds. In 1906, at Athens, he finished fourth in the 100 metres, second in the standing high jump, third in the standing broad jump, and fourth in the all-round championship. In 1908 he defeated the great Nate Cartmell in the 100-metre trials at Franklin Field, Philadelphia, but ran into cold weather in London and failed to place. Following these games, Robbie managed a group of American athletes on a tour of European centers and cleaned up. He turned pro as a coach the following year.

In 1912, Robertson went overseas as coach of the Irish-American Club and when Mike Murphy, the American team mentor, became ill, he delegated Robertson to take over his duties. Following this event, the Hungarian government signed Robbie to a six years' contract with a view to preparing its team for the 1916 Olympics, which were prevented by the World War. In 1916, Robertson became coach at the University of Pennsylvania, where he has remained ever since.

IN 1924, Jack Moakley of Cornell was the head coach of the American Olympic forces, with Robertson as one of his assistants, and, in 1924, Robertson was coach of the track squad while Walter Christie, the California coach, had charge of the field men. This year, Robertson comes into his own as the man in supreme command of the American forces. With his great background as an Olympic competitor and coach, there is no one better fitted for the berth than he.

HAHN DEPRIVED OF RECORDS

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 26.—(INS.)—Negligence on the part of track officials continues to be the bane of Lloyd Hahn's life. The great Boston runner recently was deprived of a record in Brooklyn because the track was not equipped properly, and in the St. Joseph's Catholic Club games here last night an error by track officials cost him a chance to break his own world indoor record for the 1,000-yard event.

Hahn won the race, but it was discovered later than the contestants had been made to run an extra lap, or 1,176 yards instead of 1,000.

and his boys always have a big welcome for their fellow-townsman. Bill has a pretty home in Wilkinsburg. Being a great family man, the boss of the Redbirds spends most of his time with his wife and three fine children, but he still has many hours left to while with the gang at the fire department.

In less than a month, McKechnie will lead his Redbirds to Florida, where they will partake of spring training. The Cardinals admittedly are strong contenders for the honors now held by the Pirates. With Shortstop Tommy Thevenow reported back in top condition and other injured stars ready, the Cards are apt to be stronger than they were last season, when they stayed in the flag fight right down to the last two days of the race.

Riding the girders—matching muscle against steel

But no stiff aching muscles for men of the Turner Construction Co.

WHETHER you're riding the girders a hundred feet up in the air, holding the drill, or tossing the red hot rivets—a construction man is using his muscles all day long.

Out in the open, too, mostly—sometimes in a biting wind or a chilling drizzle.

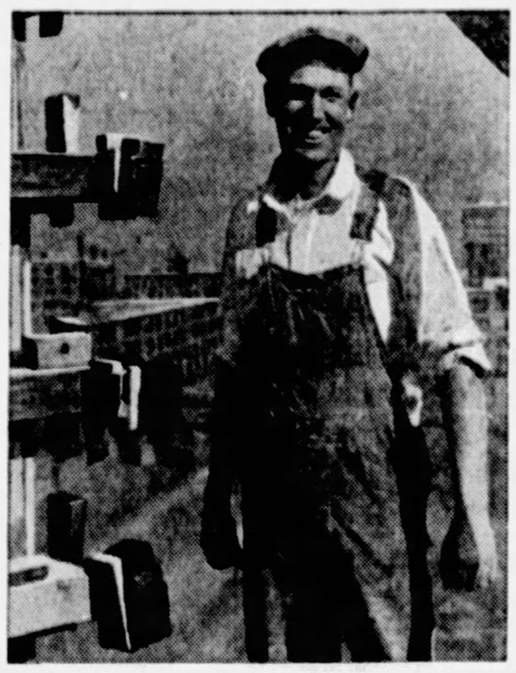
Unless you look out for yourself, your muscles are likely to get stiff and painful—or you find yourself laid up with a bad cold or an attack of rheumatism.

The men of the Turner Construction Company in New York are an especially fine, healthy-looking lot of men. We asked them what they do to keep in such splendid condition.

About half of them said, "Sloan's is our great standby."

It's the same everywhere on strenuous jobs

Active men and women on strenuous jobs all over the world have known for years that there is nothing like Sloan's Liniment for limbering up stiff muscles, for warding off the effects of exposure and for taking care of all sorts of minor injuries.



One of the men of the Turner Construction Company who told us that they rely on Sloan's to keep their muscles fit for the job

A painter tells this remarkable story of quick relief: "A severe pain came in my instep while I was on top of a roof painting. I was two and a half miles from home, and had to walk. How I suffered, no one knows. It was something terrible. A friend of mine gave me some Sloan's and by ten o'clock it commenced to quiet down and I rested well. The next morning I rubbed it on again. The way it hurt, I thought I never would be able to finish my paint job, but I went right out and walked the two and a half miles and the pain left me entirely and I finished my job." Frank Daton Hayes, St. Louis Park, Minn.

And read this story of relief from a painful injury:

"I tore a ligament loose in my hand. I tried other remedies, but none of them helped me, until I used Sloan's Liniment. It destroyed the pain completely. While I was trying other medicines I had to use my one hand, and by the time I found Sloan's it was very much fatigued so I applied Sloan's. In one-half hour it was all right. I wish you would inform everyone who is suffering. I cannot give Sloan's enough gratitude." Robert Whisler, 127 N. Benton St., Mansfield, Ohio.

Sloan's Liniment requires no tiresome rubbing. Just pat it on over the place where the pain is. At once you feel a pleasant, glowing warmth. Knotted tendons relax, stiffened joints limber up as fresh blood begins circulating through the aching spot. The pain stops because the cause is removed.

Get a bottle today—35 cents at all druggists. Then tonight, at the end of your day's work, try it and see for yourself what quick, genuine comfort it gives. Use it for:

Rheumatism — Lame muscles
Sciatica — Stiff neck
Lumbago — Colds and congestions
Neuralgia — Sprains and bruises

Here's what a company doctor who cares for the ills of hundreds of working people every year says of Sloan's: "People whose work exposes them to strain or to damp and cold usually suffer from a good deal of muscular soreness. We find that Sloan's gives them quick, positive relief."

Seven-Day Jobs Preferred, Railway Heads Declare

—By B. C. FORBES—

DO MANY railwaymen prefer the seven-day work-week to the six-day week?

One railway president declares:

The facts are that most of them prefer to work an extra day unless they can be relieved and paid seven days for doing six days' work. The whole matter resolves itself into a question of wages rather than into a matter of a seven-day week as is frequently referred to."

Even granting this, is the time not coming when public opinion will oppose the seven-day work-week on social, moral, national grounds?

THAT most of our leading railroads are now alive to the importance of reducing seven-day work to a minimum is brought out in letters received by the writer. President J. M. Kurn, of the St. Louis-San Francisco Railway, writes:

"Dear Mr. Forbes:

"As far as this company is concerned, there is nothing whatever to the complaints about the seven-day week. The majority of our office employes work five and-a-half days per week, and only such clerks work in the local station as are necessary to check the trains and do a certain amount of billing, and practically all of these employes have one day a week off, if they work on Sunday.

"Our shops are all closed on Sunday and we only work such men in the mechanical department as are necessary at the different roundhouses to turn power, and only such car men as are necessary to inspect the trains and make light repairs to perishable loads or to cars handling livestock are worked, not two per cent of the total thus employed.

"Very few, if any, of our station agents work Sunday, unless they also act as telegraph operators, in which case they come to the office an hour or two on Sunday to meet certain trains. This, however, is avoided wherever possible.

"Our train dispatching, of course, has to be handled seven days a week, but EVERY DISPATCHER IS ALLOWED ONE DAY OFF EACH WEEK, so they only work six days. And only such train and enginemen as are necessary to move the traffic and, of course, these men work on mileage or hourly basis and they have a great deal of time off.

"As to terminals, we only work such switch engines as are absolutely necessary to make up and break up trains run on Sundays.

"In addition to letting the men off on Sunday, a big majority of them are off on all of the seven legal holidays of the year.

"We are making every effort possible to reduce Sunday work, first, because we want to give the employes a chance to have a day of rest; second, on most cases time-and-one-half is paid for Sunday work, and it is in the interest of good operation to do as little Sunday work as possible.

"Yours very truly,

"J. M. KURN."

E. M. RINE, vice president and general manager of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad, writes, in part:

"Dear Mr. Forbes:

"While it is not our desire to work our employes in excess of six days per week, there are many conditions surrounding the operation of the railroad that make it impracticable to provide relief on the seventh day in all cases.

"You no doubt appreciate that a railroad differs substantially from any other industry, as its employes are widely scattered and relief cannot always be obtained. The employes are fully cognizant of the situation and make no complaints.

"As a matter of fact, the seven-day assignments are much sought after by the older men in service, and are bid in on seniority basis when vacancies occur, as the men prefer to obtain the higher earnings attached to such positions and then ask for time off when it suits their convenience.

"Very truly yours,

"E. M. RINE."

A FUR HOUSE
Who is enjoying an enviable reputation for the character of the goods they produce—find themselves at present in the unusual position of having too much merchandise on hand.

This condition was brought about through the fact of general business conditions being poor, and also that the FUR weather has not at all been favorable.

Should we have published our bid for trade stating openly the prices at which we will sell our goods, it would almost sound unbelievable and would only tend to create the impression of sensationalism.

We choose this means of communicating with women who are really interested in the purchase of a FUR COAT, and through this method we will be happy to inform the inquirer of complete details as to our offering. Write M 221, Sun-Telegraph.

BUGS BAER Says

SENATOR HEFLIN denies that he threatened to outfit Senator Robinson with a light spring upholstery of tar and feathers.

The heir to the jabberwock and the bandersnatch spoke for two hours in the laughing room of the Senate. His subject was, "How to Empty a Hall."

He did. The Heflin is a left-over from the old school of hip-and-elbow oratory. He talks straight from the shoulder. And never above it.

ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER.

Only 20 gassed senators were left in the funeral parlor of logic when the Heflin succumbed to a lingering speech.

When we worked in Washington we often heard the Heflin chatter. Most of his oratory was spilled in the old Shoomaker bar on F street. He was a one-man broadcasting station.

The Heflin loves to talk. So far as he is concerned, the rest of the mortals are but ventriloquists' dolls.

He likes to monopolize the dais and make the welkin stutter. When he is at his best his chest sticks out like a lopsided blimp and his voice is as the roaring of many catamounts.

He has the largest private collection of magnificent gestures in the world. And we always imagined that the Heflin regretted the fact that his coat did not have 30 tails so that he could spread them like a purple and gold fan in the glittering sun.

They said that Roosevelt wanted to be the bride at a wedding and the corpse at a funeral. Heflin wants to be all that and also the only candle on the Democratic party's birthday cake.

His apology to Robinson was better never than late. Why should he tar and feather a fellow demmie when there are so many repubs who need new clothes?

But there is no doubt that he invited Robinson down to Alabama to be fitted for a sticky mother hubbard of pitch and chicken wings.

Robinson accepted the invitation on condition that the Heflin played a return game in Arkansas, where they also have boiling lakes and poultry farms.

Now that the Heflin has been repudiated by his own home state of Alabama we will get a chance to see how a live wire acts when it is no longer connected with its powerhouse.

Blue Law Change Needed; We ARE Behind Times

Clarence S. Darrow, celebrated criminal lawyer, in Pittsburgh to deliver a lecture, said our city was far behind the times in the matter of Sunday recreation for the man who works six days a week. He expressed himself in favor of Sunday sports and movies.

Of course, we do not have to live as Mr. Darrow says we should, and there might even be a question of the propriety of a man from another state finding fault with our laws, which do concern us, but not him; yet we can excuse him on that score, since he was asked to give an opinion.

The charge Mr. Darrow makes, however, is TRUE. Pennsylvania—not Pittsburgh alone—is far behind the times in the matter of innocent Sunday entertainment. Yet this is not to state that our people are behind the times. Most of us know that the archaic Blue Law has ceased to be of any use except for the persecution of people who think the framers of our Declaration of Independence knew what they were talking about when they stated that one of our INALIENABLE RIGHTS was the pursuit of happiness.

The well-to-do residents of Allegheny county play golf on Sundays and indulge in other Sunday recreation at their private clubs. The poor man's family has no place to go—even amateur baseball games on Sunday are prohibited. Members of local social clubs habitually enjoy private motion picture performances every Sunday evening all the year 'round. The poor man's family can go to church or stay at home Sunday evenings.

This discrimination is unfair and un-American.

We believe the majority of our people are opposed to the Blue Law. It is folly to assume that a law passed in 1794 can reflect the views of any save a minority of those of the present day.

The old statute should be repealed in so far as it affects the right of the people to indulge in innocent amusements on Sunday. Until it be repealed we shall have a constant procession of other Darrows telling us how far behind the times we are.

Why Saddle Tax Payers With Debt of France?

The people of the country are disturbed by rumors that the administration in Washington is considering cancellation of the other half of the war debt of the Allies to this country. One-half of it has already been wiped off the books. It would be reassuring to have the rumors officially denied.

They arose in connection with the action of the State Department in announcing that it had removed the ban on American private loans to French industries.

This ban, which has been in operation for three years on all loans to French governmental or private borrowers, was imposed for the purpose of inducing France to pay its debt to us. Not until then were she or her industries to enjoy the revivifying flow of funds from Wall Street. Now that the ban is removed, the story is that Washington is losing interest in the entire question of making France pay.

It is well to restate the services we performed for the Allies, particularly France, and the insignificant return that we ask, even of moneys directly loaned them.

When we entered the war, according to the official admission of financial representatives of the Allies, their "strong boxes were empty;" they were financially unable to continue paying for the American supplies on which their existence depended.

We took over this financial burden, entered the war, lost a hundred thousand lives and spent forty thousand million dollars of treasure.

Of this sum thirty thousand million represents expenditure for our own stupendous war effort. The balance of ten thousand million was loaned to the Allies and nearly thirty-five hundred million of it to France.

When two years ago Secretary Mellon and M. Berenger came to talk of arranging for payment of the French debt, its unpaid interest had swelled the total to four thousand million dollars. Mellon and Berenger arranged a settlement which the Frenchman considered generous and which he took home for ratification by the French Parliament. It has never been ratified.

Now note its terms. Instead of asking France to pay us back the four thousand million dollars with interest at 4¼ per cent, as carried in the notes she gave us when she got the money, Mr. Mellon offered to reduce her interest payments to an insignificant figure.

For the first five years the total French payments to us would not run over $35,000,000 annually. Then the interest rate gradually increases. The "present value" of the proposed French settlement, based on current interest rates, is $1,681,000,000. That is, we offered to forgive France over one-half of the four thousand million dollar debt for which we hold her notes.

If this is not generous, what is there in the history of international relations that is generous? To say that France cannot meet these payments is grotesque. This year she is receiving in war indemnity from Germany $200,000,000. Next year she will receive from the same source slightly over $300,000,000.

The proponents of debt cancellations in effect say that France cannot afford to take ONE-TENTH of her German reparations and apply that one-tenth to payment of her honest debt to this country, which is responsible for defeating Germany and getting any reparations for the Allies at all.

There is no respectable basis for further debt cancellation. We cannot believe that the administration is unwise enough to entertain the idea of loading the SECOND half of the French debt on the shoulders of American taxpayers.

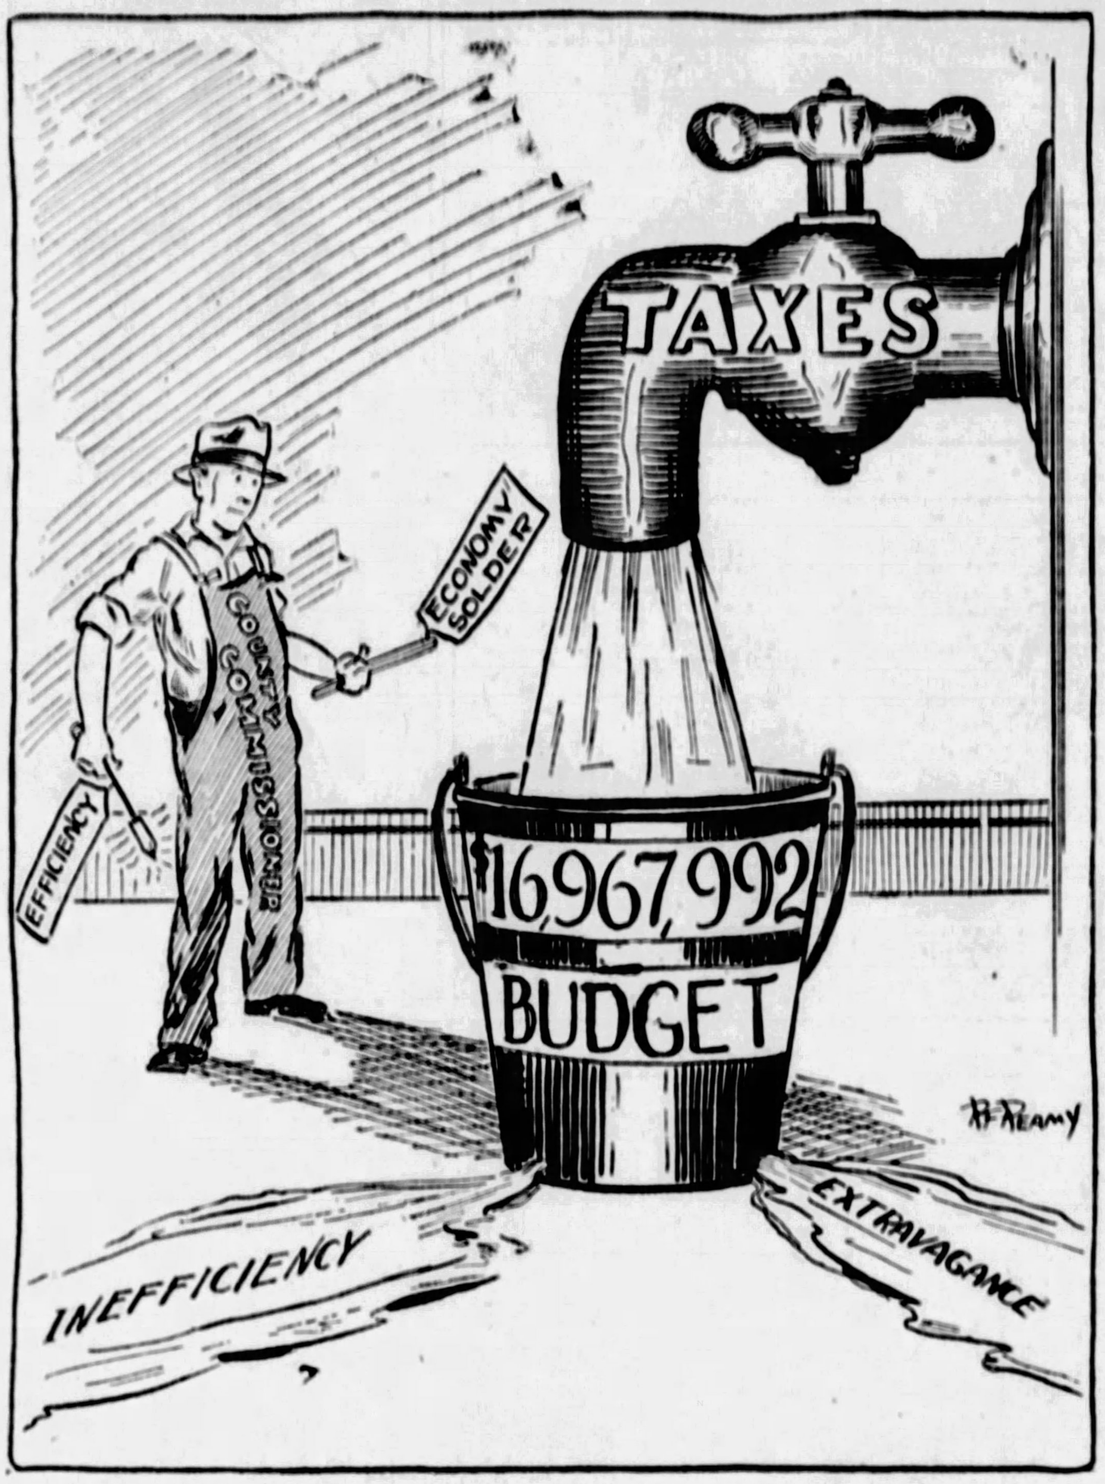
MIND THE LEAKS



NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—No mercantile establishment has undergone such complete change in the past few years as the New York drug store. The biggest revenue now comes from soda water, coffee and sandwiches. Toilet supplies are next and drugs, in most stores, last.

Various forms of drugless healing, coupled with the fact physicians prescribe fewer drugs, have decimated ranks at the prescription counter. A trade condition that would likely have caused the collapse of almost any other business was faced by many druggists.

They turned it into a brighter prosperity than they had ever known before. Their psychology was a little obvious but sound. The old-time drug store was a rather cheerless institution, with dingy interior, solemn pharmacists and depressive medicinal odors.

The dignified window display was a bottle of green liquid in one window and one of red in the other. Or a pyramided pile of empty corn salve boxes. Today the modern drug store is glitter with light and mirrors. The clerks are snappily dressed and eager young men with a dash of collar ad insouciance.

There are no longer pharmaceutical smells but the breath of perfume from Araby, scents of oranges and other fresh and delicious fruits. The drug store window display has become the sort that stops sidewalk traffic in pedestrianic awe.

There are windows of bright-jacketed novels, arrays of be-ribboned bon-bons, monogrammed toilet necessities, fastidiously blown bottles of perfume, imported toys, silver cocktail sets and now and then those Apollo like demonstrators revealing the wonders of a new ringle-dangle.

Drug stores used to have slight trade booms following a heavy advertising program of a new patented medicine. They could always count on thousands—including myself—who gave everything of this sort a good, fair trial. That idea, too, has joined the pug dog.

With two exceptions musical shows have been unusually clean this season. The jokes were the sort that could properly be told in the nursery and the cleaner they were the bigger the hits. It is convincing enough stage censorship is not necessary. The stage eventually purges itself without attracting the morbidly curious. As one bearing no medals for purity, I find myself dodging gentlemen who specialize in smutty stories. This applies in the mass to theatrical smut.

It is also noticeable undraped ladies are no longer featured. They are as passe as Irish comics with green whiskers.

Garrett P. Serviss Says:

Time and Times

"What are the differences between 'local mean,' 'standard' and 'universal' time?—E. B. H."

ALL the time is measured, fundamentally, by the rotation of the earth on its axis. Such measurement can only be made by watching the apparent movement of the sun (or of a fixed star) through the sky, the apparent movement being caused, of course, by the actual turning of the earth in the opposite direction. The earth turns from west to east; the sun and stars appear to move from east to west.

We shall here attend solely to the time shown by the sun; that shown by the stars is only used by astronomers for special purposes.

The earth, then, makes one complete rotation in 24 hours of solar time, and this period of 24 hours we call a day. If the earth stood still in space while rotating on its axis the length of the day would be the same whether measured by the sun or by the stars. But because of the earth's annual revolution around the sun the time of one rotation on its axis is a little longer when measured by the sun's return to the meridian than when measured by the return of a star.

For this reason star time cannot be used for ordinary purposes, since it falls out of accord with the regular succession of daylight and darkness produced by the motion of the sun.

But the length of the days as measured by the sun is not the same at all times of the year. The earth, traveling in an elliptical orbit around the sun, moves a little faster when it is nearer the sun, and a little slower when it is farther away. The consequent difference in the length of the day amounts in the extreme to about fifty-one seconds. To avoid the effects of this irregularity the sun is assumed to move at a perfectly uniform rate every day. This is called "the mean sun," and time based upon its returns to the meridian is called "mean time." This is the time kept by all good watches and clocks.

"Local mean time," then is based on the return of the "mean sun" to the meridian of any particular locality, once every 24 hours, the hours being all of equal length.

"Universal time"—a term not much used—is identical with Greenwich time, or the time marked by the mean sun's passage over the prime meridian of the earth, which, for convenience, has been made identical with the meridian running through the Greenwich Observatory, near London. Astronomical events, such as eclipses, are conveniently predicted in Universal time, but the moment of their occurrence in local time must be calculated from the distance, east or west, in degrees of longitude, from Greenwich, of the chosen locality.

For, since there are 24 hours, or 1,440 minutes, in a day, and 360 degrees in the earth's circumference, every degree must correspond to four minutes, and every 15 degrees to one hour. So when the sun, moving westward, is crossing the meridian of Greenwich it must have crossed the meridian of a place 30 degrees east of Greenwich two hours earlier, and it will cross the meridian in a place 30 degrees west of Greenwich two hours later.

"Standard time" is a system of grouping the hours in such a way that the local time of certain regularly spaced meridians can be used as approximately correct over the whole breadth of zones (each 15 degrees corresponding to one hour) wide.

Once Overs

By J. J. MUNDY

Good Feeling

THE holiday season brought you a certain something that filled you with happiness and good feeling toward others.

It was not a result of what you thought you might receive in the way of gifts.

Was it not the pleasure you felt you could afford to others?

But the joyous experience of those few days is leaving you and soon you expect to drop back into the drab humdrum of life.

Ordinarily you do not think much about making others happy.

And you know that you get more out of life during the holidays than you do any other time of the year.

And you are satisfied that it is because of your thoughtfulness of other persons' happiness.

Something must be done with your scheme of life.

If you know that the Christmas spirit of giving is such a joy-breeding, desirable thing, why don't you plan to spread it along through the months?

From a selfish standpoint you would be doing as much for yourself as you would for others. Try it!

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Wood Fire

THE room is gracious, glowing, warm,
For firelight dances here
And mocks at Winter and the storm
With all its golden cheer.

For years on years the great tree stood
Upon the sun-kissed plain;
Its young leaves danced to April's mood
And knew each wind's refrain.

For years the great sun's heat it stored
In every limb and bough
To give again its golden horde
Of prisoned sunbeams now!

Ye Towne Gossip

by K. C. B.

IF THE little boy,
WHO LOOKED in the window,
OF THE cutlery store,
FOR SUCH A long time,
AND TIMIDLY,
THEN ENTERED the store,
AND ASKED THE young lady,
ABOUT THE price,
OF THE carving set,
WITH THE ebony handles,
AND THEN discovered,
IT COST one dollar,
MORE THAN he had,
AND BECAUSE he sold papers,
AND ONLY MADE,
ABOUT TWO bits a night,
AND MOTHER'S BIRTHDAY,
JUST TWO days away,
HE HAD no hope,
OF ANOTHER dollar,
AND STOOD and looked,
AT THE black-handled set,
AND THEN at the set,
WHICH COST THREE dollars,
WHICH WAS all he had,
A WHITE-handled set,
THAT HE didn't like,
AND TOLD THE clerk,
HE WAS buying it,
FOR A gift to mother,
AND WHO was told,
BY THE kind young lady,
HOW SORRY she was,
AND HOW MUCH she would like,
TO LET him have,
THE BLACK-HANDLED set,
FOR THE money he had,
BUT SHE couldn't do it,
AND AFTER a while,
HE MADE up his mind,
THAT THE WHITE-HANDLED set,
WOULD HAVE to do,
AND HE had it wrapped,
AND PAID his money,
AND WENT away,
WITH A last fond look,
AT THE black-handled set,
IF THIS little boy,
OR MAYBE his mother,
SHOULD READ these lines,
I WANT them to know,
I HAVE a letter,
FROM A gentleman,
WHO WAS in the store,
AND HE wants me to say,
IF THE WHITE-HANDLED set,
HAS ONLY been used,
THE LEAST little bit,
IF THE boy will take it,
BACK TO the store,
HE CAN trade it in,
FOR THE black-handled set,
AND THE dollar to boot,
HAS BEEN left at the store,
I THANK you.

Great Caesar

MODERN democracy is running rampant after the scalps of kings. Such trophies will soon be listed as antiques.

Nor is this political tomahawking limited to the regal pates left peeled and bald by the World War but the pens of battling writers like Wells have reached back into the centuries and cut away the coronals of Caesars.

But we would recrown Augustus Caesar today by the acknowledgment of one great virtue of his whose brilliance overtops the centuries and glows like the pearly portals of paradise.

He received humbly the rebukes of individuals public or private.

And that virtue is nearly a lost art in these days of superiority complexes and unleashed egotism.

One of the many anecdotes of this moderation is a dialogue between Caesar Augustus and a certain knight. Listen:

Caesar—"You have squandered your patrimony shamefully."

Knight—"On the contrary I have augmented it materially."

Caesar—"But you are living in celibacy contrary to recent enactments."

Knight—"Nay, sir, but I am married and have three children."

Then the knight, seeing that the Emperor had no further charges to bring, said:

"Another time, Caesar, when you give ear to informations against honest men, take care that your informants are honest themselves."

And Augustus Caesar felt the justice of the rebuke thus publicly administered and submitted.

He might have summoned the headsman and sent the impudent head away on a charger. He might have ordered a centurion to hurl the knight to the beasts in the amphitheater.

Now then, good folks, I submit that all the tomahawks of the Seminoles couldn't get the scalp of such nobility. In this Caesar is greater than in all the Roman Triumphs that ever threaded the Appian Way.

Where authority acknowledges error there is greatness.

Law or Revenge

By DR. FRANK CRANE

The other day a woman shot and killed a man who had wronged her daughter.

The coroner's jury exonerated her and the grand jury and the district attorney declined to prosecute.

The murder charge was dismissed, the officials evidently holding that it would be impossible to secure a jury that would find the woman guilty.

It is hard to condemn this woman, and most of us think that the man, if the circumstances are as alleged, got about what was coming to him.

We would all have done about the same thing if we had been in the woman's place.

At the same time if the man's offense was unpardonable the woman's is no less so.

She took the law in her own hands, constituted herself judge, jury and executioner, and inflicted the death penalty. This is contrary to all our notions of justice.

The victim was entitled to his day in court and should have been allowed to plead in his own defense, if there was any defense to be made, and he was entitled to the judgment of a jury of his peers.

Such juries have not proved themselves very lenient with this kind of offense and the probabilities are that it would have fared hard with the culprit.

The trouble with the world is the tendency that we all have at times to take the law into our own hands. Nations insist upon being "guardians of their own honor" and the result is burdensome armaments and the constant menace of war. Not until all questions of whatever character are subject to arbitration and a ruling by a disinterested party will war cease.

The same thing is true in everyday life.

Individuals should not be allowed to carry lethal weapons. No man should be equipped to take human life unless he is properly constituted as an executioner by society and until the accused has a chance to defend himself.

Policemen exist because we have all agreed to refer our quarrels to the courts and not to enforce our private judgments by force of arms.

This is the essence of civilization.

Of course the man sinned, according to reports, but the woman sinned quite as much, for she struck at the orderly construction of society which implies that a man shall not right his own wrongs, but shall leave that matter to a disinterested party.

Tales That Are Told

No Risk Taken

"WILL you try some of my angel cake? asked the young wife of her husband.

"No thank you," was the reply.

"Are you afraid it isn't good enough?"

"No; I'm afraid I'm not good enough."

"Good enough for what, dear?"

"Good enough to become an angel."

Striking Softly

HE WAS a stage aspirant, and had contrived somehow to gain an introduction to a well-known manager, who agreed to fix a date for a trial. This duly came off, and expectantly the aspirant awaited the verdict.

"What do you think of it?" he asked, after a deep silence.

"Well," replied the manager slowly, "all I can say is that if ever you are put in prison for acting it will be a grave miscarriage of justice."
—London Tit-Bits.

Fishy

THE fisherman had had bad luck all day, but as the afternoon waning he landed a beauty. A villager who happened to be passing stopped and inspected it.

"Is that there fish for sale?" he asked.

"No," said the angler. "I'm a sportsman. I fish solely for the pleasure of catching them."

Whereupon the villager kicked the flapping fish back into the water.

"Well," he said, "now you can have the pleasure of catchin' that feller again."

Seeing the Signs

"DO YOU know anything about palmistry, George dear?" the sweet young thing asked her suitor.

"Well, not very much," he answered, with an air of becoming modesty. "But the other evening I had a remarkable experience which might be called an example of the art."

"Oh, George," enthused the girl, "do tell me."

"Well," said George, "I looked at a friend's hand and predicted that he would shortly have some money. Before I left him he had quite a useful sum given him!"

"And you foretold that from his hand, dear?" asked the girl.

"Yes; he had the ace, king, jack and ten of trumps in it."
